U. S. Adopts Waiting Plan For Proof of Russia H-Bomb

Prison Camp Was Never Like This

Repatriated prisoners of war enjoy a noonday meal in the mess hall at the Inchon processing center while a GI orchestra supplies the music. These men, exchanged on the first day, will soon board a transport for home.

Yanks Leave Tokyo; 328 to Sail at Inchon

Nine Are Injured In Six Accidents

Local Man Is Arrested on Reckless Driving Charge

Nine persons were injured in six city traffic mishaps and one driver was arrested over the week-end.

Frank John Jung, Jr., 23, of 33 Roosevelt avenue, was arrested by Rubin Schwimmer, of Brooklyn, on a reckless driving charge after a two-car accident at Broadway and O'Reilly street early Sunday.

Jung's case was put over to Aug. 17 to allow him time to obtain counsel when he appeared before Special City Judge Harry Gold today. He was admitted to $25 bail.

A police report at 3:31 a. m., Sunday said a car operated by Sol Rose, 40, of 80-55, 192nd street, Jamaica, was headed south on Broadway and Jung's car was headed east at the O'Reilly street intersection when they collided.

Schwimmer, who was in the car driven by Rose, suffered a possible rib fracture and contusions of the right shoulder, police said, and Pauline Schwimmer suffered contusions of the right leg; Rose Herzog, also in the car, suffered contusions of the scalp and another occupant, Sylvia Rose, suffered minor abrasions of the legs.

Officers Sheldon O'Rourke and Hydrect Armstrong investigated.

Three Others Hurt

Three others were reported injured in a mishap at East Chester street and Flatbush avenue at 5:23 p. m., Sunday.

Officers James Burns and Harold DeGraff reported that the sedan of Roman Halibey, 315 Van Winkle avenue, Jersey City, was headed south on East Chester street, and the car of John Henry Gunther, Severan Park, Md., operated by William Haid, was also going south at the intersection when they collided.

Injured were Kathra Kotytz, 58 VanWinkle avenue, Jersey City, injured left elbow; Martha Shlemkevyek, 140 Fifth street, Elizabeth, N. J., back injury, and Doris Gunther, of Severan Park, injury of the left leg.

Two were injured in another two-car collision at TenBroeck avenue and Grand street at 5:15 p. m., Saturday.

A police report said the car of Eckert Lockwood, 55, of 29 N. Dutcher avenue, Irvington, was headed east on Grand street, and a car operated by Marion Agnes Clark, 22, of 58 St. James street, was going north on TenBroeck avenue when they collided.

Lockwood suffered injuries of the left knee and the other driver injuries to the left leg and thigh, police said.

A report at 3:23 a. m., Sunday said the car of John Carter, 45 Jarrold street, struck and damaged a street light pole and traffic sign on Clinton avenue near Main street. No injuries were reported. The car was towed from the scene.

Saw Car Over Bank

Deputy Sheriff Albert Eisele reported to police headquarters at 12:01 a. m. today that while he was returning from East Kingston he saw a "car hanging over a bank." Officers Joseph Kivlan and John Crespino investigated and reported that the mishap was a half mile south of the city line, and that James Boughton, RD 1, Kingston, was the owner.

Police headquarters was notified at 5:23 a. m., today that a car was off the Wilbur road near Abeel street. Officers Dougherty and Millham were dispatched there and reported the car belonged to Michael F. Quinn, RD 4, Kingston, and that a wrecker was called to haul it back on the road.

Reds Free 389 More POWs; So. Korea Returnees Sad and Pitiful

Panmunjom, Aug. 10 (AP)—Seventeen disabled but happy Americans left Tokyo tonight by plane for the United States, leaving behind grim months in North Korean prison camps.

Another 328 Americans boarded a navy transport in Inchon harbor and will sail for home tomorrow. About 1,800 U. S. marines returning home on regular rotation also are aboard the ship, the Gen. Nelson M. Walker.

The big air force plane carrying the vanguard of more than 3,000 Americans scheduled to be liberated in the massive prisoner exchange took off from Tokyo's Haneda Airport at 7:07 p. m. (5:07 a. m. Monday, EST).

Although destination and landing time were not given, the transport probably will set down at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco about noon Tuesday (2 p. m. EST).

To Take Two Weeks

The ship probably will take about two weeks to cross the Pacific to Seattle or San Francisco.

Monday saw 389 more allied soldiers return from North Korean stockades—laughing, happy Americans, British and Turks, and 189 South Koreans, many of them human wrecks.

Panmunjom's mood swung sharply between sadness and gaiety Monday—depending on what nationality was on the trucks.

The 125 Americans and 25 Turks all appeared in good condition. The British, 50 in all were in excellent spirits.

But there were grim faces among tough U. S. marines who unloaded Red ambulances loaded with wasted, emaciated ROK soldiers.

Red Press Stays Away

And cynical Communist press photographers largely stayed away since the South Korean living dead offered no propaganda possibilities for them.

There were 200 non-Koreans exchanged Monday. It was the first day that more non-Koreans than ROKs have been returned. Early Monday the Reds suddenly announced they were substituting 25 more Americans and 25 more

President Is Given Report on Dulles Talks With Rhee

Secretary of State Goes to Lowry Base for Meeting With Eisenhower

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said after a conference with President Eisenhower today that the United States probably would adopt "reciprocal measures" if the Communists refuse to return some American prisoners of war."

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower today received a first hand report from Secretary of State Dulles on the cabinet officer's talks with President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

The Eisenhower-Dulles conference got started shortly after the secretary arrived by plane at the President's vacation headquarters, following a flight from the Far East.

Dulles said in Honolulu yesterday that he had achieved "categoric assurance" from Rhee that the South Koreans won't upset the three week old truce.

Dulles and his party arrived at the base at 9:09 a. m., EST, after an overnight non-stop flight from Honolulu.

Thirty-five minutes later—at 7:45 a. m., Denver time—the President arrived at the administration building after a drive from the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Greets Newsmen

"You fellows are getting up early here in this mountain air."

It was Eisenhower's first visit to his office in the administration building since he and the First Lady flew here from Washington Saturday.

Before going to his second floor office, the President strolled down the corridor on the first floor to take a look at the conference room where his meeting with Dulles had been scheduled to take place.

A few minutes later a presidential aide announced that the conference was being held instead in Eisenhower's small office.

Will Train Troops

Seoul, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today South Korea's army will use the armistice period to train "for an offensive whenever necessary."

Americans Turned Red Are Among Released Prisoners

Freedom Village, Aug. 10 (AP)—Americans freed from Red prison stockades said today Red-indoctrinated U. S. prisoners are among those returning—including 30 "progressives" en route home to preach communism in the United States.

Cpl. Leslie E. Scales, 22, of Folsomville, Ind., said the 30 were members of his 306-man company at Camp 5 in Pyoktong on the Yalu river.

Most of the men in the company were anti-Red, he said in an interview at Inchon, but he knew the 30 personally.

Other repatriated prisoners have told of Americans who collaborated with the Reds, but only Scales told of repatriates returning to work for communism in America.

Another prisoner liberated today said some POWs "played along" to get better treatment and "no one could tell for sure which were real progressives . ."

Scales said he had heard the 30 talk about joining organizations called the "Ex-POWs for Peace" and the "Veterans for Peace," but he did not know if they had been formed.

Scales said he did not know if the "progressives" planned to join the Communist party in America, but said he heard them talk of a reunion at the home of a friend in San Francisco to discuss their next moves.

Scales said he also knew of several British POWs returning who had collaborated with the Reds. One, he said, had told him he was a card-carrying Communist.

Scales said not all of the 30 were "rats" (informers) in camp. He said some believed in communism but did not inform.

Most, he said, were in their 20s, poorly-educated and had served long terms in the camp.

Scales, whose wife and daughter live in Hudson, N. H., with her

Draft Calls To Continue As Formerly

Demands to Hit 19,000 to 23,000 Each Month —Service Period Not Shortened

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Despite the halt in Korean fighting, the burden of required military service on the nation's young men hasn't changed.

Those in uniform can't expect to get out ahead of time. Those awaiting military call can expect to serve as long as if the fighting had continued.

To back up this outlook, Defense Department and Selective Service officials said in interviews today:

Draft calls will go out at about the same rate as had been planned before the shooting stopped—between 19,000 and 23,000 calls during each of the next 11 months. No plans have been made to shorten present tours of active duty, except for surplus officers on voluntary tours.

Same—or Greater

The demand from the armed forces for reenlistments and enlistments will remain about the same, or greater.

There are no plans to ease deferment policies.

At the root of this situation is the nation's defense planning, which calls for continuing the armed forces at nearly the Korean war level—a 3,300,000 total. This figure does represent a cut of about 2,000,000 men in the size of the armed forces between now and next July 1. But it's a cut which was planned long before the Korean truce and will not be reflected by changes in today's manpower needs.

The Korean truce will make only one essential change in the military manpower picture. A 50,000-man cut in the size of the army and a 5,000-man cut in the marine corps are planned which otherwise wouldn't have been made. These stem from a reduction in combat replacements that were needed to keep an effective fighting force in Korea.

It's Open Question

To some degree, the 50,000 cut in the army's strength will be reflected in smaller draft calls. Just when and how, however, is an open question now. This accounts for the scheduled draft calls for the coming months varying between 19,000 and 23,000 men.

Taking into account the 55,000 reduction, the planned sizes of the four armed forces by next July 1 are: Army, 1,370,000; Navy, 745,000; Air Force, 960,000; Marine Corps, 225,000.

To maintain these forces, about 875,000 men will have to reenlist, enlist or be drafted to replace men who will complete their tours of service by next July 1. Plans include the drafting of about 275,000 men, the reenlistment of 200,000 men and the enlistment of about 300,000. About 100,000 reserves and officers are scheduled to be called as replacements.

In discussing these figures, the defense department is quick to point out that they are only estimates. What the actual figures will be only time will tell.

Has Some Control

The department has some control over the draft and reserve and officer calls. It's the reenlistment and enlistment figures of 200,000 and 300,000 that the department will be watching closely since, at best, they're a combination of department hopes and calculations.

For, if these expectations aren't met, it will mean that draft calls will have to move up. Last year there were 170,000 reenlistments and 380,000 enlistments, so the department shouldn't be too far off in its estimates.

Although the military manpower picture won't change much between now and July 1, after that the defense department and selective service expect a number of changes. Chances are the defense department will jump draft calls to about 45,000 a month, selective service will make some changes in draft regulations and both will be scurrying to make sure enough draftable men will be available to meet defense needs.

Depends On Situation

This all depends, however, on whether the international situation gets better or worse. Of course, a changeover to a plan of universal military training (UMT) would cause considerable revamping of most military manpower planning. President Eisenhower ordered his

Reds Profiteer On Seized Food

Berlin, Aug. 10 (AP)—Refugees from the Russian zone reported today that the Communists were staging a big swindle by selling confiscated American food in their state-owned stores at profiteering prices.

Red propagandists have widely advertised that the American food parcels which they have been confiscating from East Germans are being given back to "needy West Berliners."

But refugee reports say much of the stolen food—especially milk and fats—finds its way onto the tables of Communist party officials. Other stocks are wrapped in labels of the HO (Handels Organization) state stores and sold there. These stores sell off-theration foods which many workers cannot afford to buy.

Beria Case Goes Via Rubber Stamp To Supreme Court

Soviet Parliament Gives Order Confirming His Ouster for His Activities

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Soviet Parliament rubber-stamped its approval today of the purging of Lavrenty P. Beria and ordered the case against the Kremlin's former No. 2 man to the Soviet Supreme Court.

The decree of the Supreme Council (Parliament), broadcast by Moscow radio, indicated that the stage is being set for the trial of Premier Georgi M. Malenkov's one-time top deputy who rose to power as the head of Stalin's dreaded secret police.

The broadcast said the Council had confirmed the 54-year-old Beria's ouster for "criminal and anti-state activities," approved stripping him of "all awards and ranks, and (approved) transferring (his) case for consideration by the U.S.R.R. Supreme Court."

Came After Applause

Ironically, the Parliament acted at a session in which earlier it had wildly applauded announcement of a new Soviet achievement in a program which the west generally believed Beria bossed—the development of atomic weapons.

Malenkov told the council on Saturday that the United States no longer had a monopoly on the hydrogen bomb. The west accepted the statement as an announcement that Russia has built, or knows how to build, the fearful bomb. Many experts were skeptical of Malenkov's claim, however.

Beria's downfall early in July came after persistent rumors of a titanic struggle for power in the Soviet high command. It launched a widespread purge of his proteges and favorites both within the Soviet Union and in various of the restless satellites.

Malenkov himself presented the charges against his longtime associate, accusing him of planning to take over the Soviet government and of plotting with foreign imperialists.

Bellemore Flier Hurt In Monticello Crash

Monticello, Aug. 10 (AP)—Paul J. Walkowski, 40, of Bellemore, remained in serious condition today after crash-landing his sports plane on a farm field yesterday at nearby White Lake.

Walkowski, his Cessna Craft forced down by a heavy rainstorm in the area, suffered a fractured skull and other head injuries.

Conference Is Held

A conference was held shortly before noon today between Attorney Frederick H. Stang and representatives of the Grand Union Company relative to use of a blacktop drive connecting its new supermarket property on Albany avenue with Madison avenue. Stang, who represented residential property owners, pointed out that under the agreement setting up a "buffer zone" along Madison avenue, the street could not be used as a means of ingress or egress. Further conferences may be held and no announcement was made on the results of today's conference.

All 24 Airmen Found Alive; Fell in Desert

None of Survivors Is Hurt Seriously—Earlier Reports Erroneous

Wiesbaden, Germany, Aug. 10 (AP)—All 24 men who parachuted from their disabled C-119 flying boxcar over the Libyan Desert late Saturday night have been found alive, the U. S. Air Force's European headquarters said here today.

Twenty-one of the airmen were found earlier today. The other three were spotted later by an air rescue party.

The plane crashed in the desert 60 miles south of the big U. S. air force base at Wheelus Field, Tripoli.

The survivors, none seriously jured, were taken by helicopter and ground rescue teams to the air force hospital at Wheelus.

To Be Released

An air force spokesman said that the names of the survivors probably would be released later.

The plane, carrying a crew of 6 and 18 passengers, was on a flight across the Mediterranean from Udine, Italy, to Wheelus Field.

Earlier reports said the craft crashed in the sea and five survivors had been picked up, but the wreckage and the survivors were spotted in the desert today from the air by Col. Royal Anthis, commander of the Wheelus air base.

One report said that the passengers were members of the U. S. service baseball team and several officers on their way to Wheelus.

The plane had been missing since Saturday midnight, when it reported that it was 30 to 50 miles off the North African coast. British, American and Italian planes from Naples, Wheelus and Malta had searched all day yesterday and resumed the hunt again today.

Bleak Picture Is Ahead on Budget And Tax Revision

Facts Indicate Eisenhower Will Have Tough Time Keeping Up to His Balance Plan

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Congressional sources said today a bleak budget picture is throwing a heavy pall over a broad tax revision program firmly promised for next year.

They commented as the House Ways and Means Committee neared the end (probably Wednesday) of weeks of hearings, often running well into the night, on the complex subject.

A tentative program of the proposals they would like most to adopt is shaping up in the minds of some lawmakers.

But the problem was this: Almost all these proposals, certainly the ones with the most steam behind them, would cost substantial reductions in revenue.

To Have Tough Problem

And the plain facts indicate the Eisenhower administration will have a major headache next year in keeping revenue high enough to reach the long-promised goal of a balanced budget.

As one informed and influential source put it, "it looks like a battle between more justice in tax laws, and a loss in revenue. That's a hard choice."

The fiscal facts are these: The administration estimates spending for the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, at about 74 billion dollars. Income is estimated at 68½ billion, leaving a deficit of 5½ billion.

The administration is firmly committed to permit two big tax reductions—a 10 per cent cut in individual income taxes, and expiration of the excess profits tax, both on Jan. 1.

Another Big Bite

Further, scheduled cuts in corporation income taxes and excise or sales taxes—set for April 1—would take another big bite of income.

Altogether, the losses would reduce revenue to about 62 or 63 billion dollars, at present economic levels.

That means, to balance the budget, spending would have to be reduced up to 12 billion dollars under the present rate—or the tax cuts will have to be canceled, or new tax increases imposed.

Both Eisenhower and congressional leaders have promised action next year on the broad tax revision program. A look at the most important and most likely revision steps shows they could cost an additional loss of several billion dollars in revenue.

Major Proposals

These are the major proposals drawing the most support from witnesses before the ways and means committee and from lawmakers:

1. A tax benefit for working wives, to compensate for the costs of caring for their children at home. One proposal would cost about 750 million dollars a year.

2. Bigger deductions for medical and dental expenses. Present laws permit deductions only for medi-

Rainfall Damage Reported Slight

A rainfall which poured nearly three inches in a few hours in at least one area of the Catskills left scattered but minor damage in the city and county yesterday and today.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., reported service thrown out from 5:44 to 7:50 a. m., at Sleightsburg, and a section of New Salem and Port Ewen due to a fallen wire at the latter place, but the New York Telephone Co., reported "no unusual trouble" caused to its lines by the storm.

Police and the sheriff's office were notified shortly after 5:40 a. m., that a live wire was down across Broadway in Port Ewen and the information was relayed to Central Hudson.

In Kingston a manhole cover was reported off in the Broadway underpass at 10:01, and at 10:52 a blocked drainage basin flooded the intersection at Broadway and O'Reilly street. Again at 11:45 a manhole cover was reported off in the underpass, and at 11:46 Louis Sapp, Sr., of 150 Clinton avenue reported a sewer drainage basin blocked near his house, and he said the water was flooding his

Canadian Liberals Expected To Win Nation's Balloting

Toronto, Aug. 10 (AP)—Voters across Canada marked ballots today in an election widely expected to give Louis St. Laurent's Liberal party 4 to 5 more years of power.

Even the most vocal supporters of the opposition Progressive Conservative (Tory) party were dubious of ousting St. Laurent as prime minister. The opposition remembered the drubbing popular "Uncle Louis" handed them last time around.

In 1949's elections he spearheaded the greatest political victory in Canadian history, his party winning 72 per cent of the seats in the House of Commons.

Here and there, the Liberals had lost favor in the last four years—but seemingly not on a scale to warrant much optimism for George Drew. As Conservative leader, Drew would succeed St. Laurent in the event of a Tory victory.

The Liberals came to power under W. L. Mackenzie King's leadership in 1935, riding much the same wave of sentiment that elected Franklin D. Roosevelt three years earlier. Victory today would promise the Liberals, at least 22 years total tenure, beating the Democrats' 20-year stay in the White House. The Canadian term is nominally five years, but a government can call an election before its time expires. The Liberals called this one well ahead of their 1954 deadline.

The only offices at stake today were 263 Commons seats, representing as many districts. (The Liberals won two other seats without opposition. The party winning a majority forms the government, naming the prime minister. He in turn appoints a cabinet.

St. Laurent's and Drew's names appeared on the ballot only in their own districts.

Devices Are Being Used For Checks

Soviets May Have Small Scale Bomb, Atom Scientist Declares in Washington

BY FRANK E. CAREY
(AP) Science Reporter

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The next week or so could be a tense watch-and-wait period for American officials scanning the atmosphere for proof of Russia's boast that it has the dread hydrogen bomb.

This follows from the unofficial view of a well known atomic scientist, Dr. Ralph Lapp of Washington, D. C., that:

1. Russia may actually have done a "small scale" test of a proximite H-bomb late last week—small scale insofar as the hydrogen end of it, but conceivably involving a triggering atomic bomb 10 times as powerful as the one dropped on Nagasaki.

2. By Lapp's own estimate it would take at least a week for radioactivity detection devices to verify such an event. While the United States has never said how it detected the first Russian A-blast in 1949, Lapp suggested America's nationwide system for scenting the atmosphere from radioactivity from Nevada tests probably has "global arms extending right up to the Iron Curtain."

Reaction Is Varied

Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov's announcement to the Soviet Parliament Saturday that "the United States no longer has the monopoly of the hydrogen bomb" continued to set off shock waves of reaction throughout the free world.

Most of it was on the skeptical side, but there were many expressions that it at least could be true.

One effect of Malenkov's announcement was to jar loose what seemed like confirmation of speculation that the United States has unlocked the secret of the H-bomb.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.), a member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, in voicing suspicion of the Russian claim, said: "why, we didn't know we had one ourselves until last October when we exploded a hydrogen device."

Says Production Mastered

Rep. Hinshaw (D-Calif.), also a committee member, said: "we mastered production of the hydrogen bomb and all other aspects of it a year ago, so it is not surprising that the Russians claim to have developed it now."

Another member, Rep. Durham (D-N. C.), did not make such a flat statement as these. But he said the committee realized Russia's H-bomb potential long ago—"that is the reason we worked so hard last year to double this country's capacity to produce the hydrogen bomb."

Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N.M.) also a member, said he considered it a "definite possibility" that Russia has the H-bomb. Rep. Cole (R-N. Y.), committee chairman, said at his home in Bath, N. Y.: "we can not gamble that it is not true."

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), who is not a member of the committee, said on an NBC television show last night he does not believe the Russians have the H-bomb but "we know we have the bomb."

President Is Silent

President Eisenhower had no comment on Malenkov's announcement and in Denver, where the President is vacationing, his aides said no comment was expected.

The nearest approach to an official claim that America had the H-bomb came from former President Truman in his State of the Union message to Congress last January. Referring to the 1951-52 tests at Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific, Truman said:

"We have entered another stage in the world-shaking development of atomic energy. From now on, man moves into a new era of destructive power, capable of creating explosions of a new order of magnitude dwarfing the mushroom clouds of Hiroshima and Nagasaki."

Newspapers on both sides of the Iron Curtain frontpaged Malenkov's announcement. But because of the weekend, editorial and official comment in western Europe was negligible.

Injured were Kathra Kotytz, 58 VanWinkle avenue, Jersey City, injured left elbow; Martha Shlemkevyek, 140 Fifth street, Elizabeth, N. J., back injury, and Doris Gunther, of Severan Park, injury of the left leg.

Two were injured in another two-car collision at TenBroeck avenue and Grand street at 5:15 p. m., Saturday.

A police report said the car of Eckert Lockwood, 55, of 29 N. Dutcher avenue, Irvington, was headed east on Grand street, and a car operated by Marion Agnes Clark, 22, of 58 St. James street, was going north on TenBroeck avenue when they collided.

Secretary of State Goes to Lowry Base for Meeting With Eisenhower

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said after a conference with President Eisenhower today that the United States probably would adopt "reciprocal measures" if the Communists refuse to return some American prisoners of war."

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower today received a first hand report from Secretary of State Dulles on the cabinet officer's talks with President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.

The Eisenhower-Dulles conference got started shortly after the secretary arrived by plane at the President's vacation headquarters, following a flight from the Far East.

Dulles said in Honolulu yesterday that he had achieved "categoric assurance" from Rhee that the South Koreans won't upset the three week old truce.

Dulles and his party arrived at the base at 9:09 a. m., EST, after an overnight non-stop flight from Honolulu.

Thirty-five minutes later—at 7:45 a. m., Denver time—the President arrived at the administration building after a drive from the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Greets Newsmen

"You fellows are getting up early here in this mountain air."

It was Eisenhower's first visit to his office in the administration building since he and the First Lady flew here from Washington Saturday.

Before going to his second floor office, the President strolled down the corridor on the first floor to take a look at the conference room where his meeting with Dulles had been scheduled to take place.

A few minutes later a presidential aide announced that the conference was being held instead in Eisenhower's small office.

Will Train Troops

Seoul, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today South Korea's army will use the armistice period to train "for an offensive whenever necessary."

Americans Turned Red Are Among Released Prisoners

Freedom Village, Aug. 10 (AP)—Americans freed from Red prison stockades said today Red-indoctrinated U. S. prisoners are among those returning—including 30 "progressives" en route home to preach communism in the United States.

Cpl. Leslie E. Scales, 22, of Folsomville, Ind., said the 30 were members of his 306-man company at Camp 5 in Pyoktong on the Yalu river.

Most of the men in the company were anti-Red, he said in an interview at Inchon, but he knew the 30 personally.

Other repatriated prisoners have told of Americans who collaborated with the Reds, but only Scales told of repatriates returning to work for communism in America.

Another prisoner liberated today said some POWs "played along" to get better treatment and "no one could tell for sure which were real progressives . ."

Scales said he had heard the 30 talk about joining organizations called the "Ex-POWs for Peace" and the "Veterans for Peace," but he did not know if they had been formed.

Scales said he did not know if the "progressives" planned to join the Communist party in America, but said he heard them talk of a reunion at the home of a friend in San Francisco to discuss their next moves.

Scales said he also knew of several British POWs returning who had collaborated with the Reds. One, he said, had told him he was a card-carrying Communist.

Scales said not all of the 30 were "rats" (informers) in camp. He said some believed in communism but did not inform.

Most, he said, were in their 20s, poorly-educated and had served long terms in the camp.

Scales, whose wife and daughter live in Hudson, N. H., with her

Draft Calls To Continue As Formerly

Demands to Hit 19,000 to 23,000 Each Month —Service Period Not Shortened

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Despite the halt in Korean fighting, the burden of required military service on the nation's young men hasn't changed.

Those in uniform can't expect to get out ahead of time. Those awaiting military call can expect to serve as long as if the fighting had continued.

To back up this outlook, Defense Department and Selective Service officials said in interviews today:

Draft calls will go out at about the same rate as had been planned before the shooting stopped—between 19,000 and 23,000 calls during each of the next 11 months. No plans have been made to shorten present tours of active duty, except for surplus officers on voluntary tours.

Same—or Greater

The demand from the armed forces for reenlistments and enlistments will remain about the same, or greater.

There are no plans to ease deferment policies.

At the root of this situation is the nation's defense planning, which calls for continuing the armed forces at nearly the Korean war level—a 3,300,000 total. This figure does represent a cut of about 2,000,000 men in the size of the armed forces between now and next July 1. But it's a cut which was planned long before the Korean truce and will not be reflected by changes in today's manpower needs.

The Korean truce will make only one essential change in the military manpower picture. A 50,000-man cut in the size of the army and a 5,000-man cut in the marine corps are planned which otherwise wouldn't have been made. These stem from a reduction in combat replacements that were needed to keep an effective fighting force in Korea.

It's Open Question

To some degree, the 50,000 cut in the army's strength will be reflected in smaller draft calls. Just when and how, however, is an open question now. This accounts for the scheduled draft calls for the coming months varying between 19,000 and 23,000 men.

Taking into account the 55,000 reduction, the planned sizes of the four armed forces by next July 1 are: Army, 1,370,000; Navy, 745,000; Air Force, 960,000; Marine Corps, 225,000.

To maintain these forces, about 875,000 men will have to reenlist, enlist or be drafted to replace men who will complete their tours of service by next July 1. Plans include the drafting of about 275,000 men, the reenlistment of 200,000 men and the enlistment of about 300,000. About 100,000 reserves and officers are scheduled to be called as replacements.

In discussing these figures, the defense department is quick to point out that they are only estimates. What the actual figures will be only time will tell.

Has Some Control

The department has some control over the draft and reserve and officer calls. It's the reenlistment and enlistment figures of 200,000 and 300,000 that the department will be watching closely since, at best, they're a combination of department hopes and calculations.

For, if these expectations aren't met, it will mean that draft calls will have to move up. Last year there were 170,000 reenlistments and 380,000 enlistments, so the department shouldn't be too far off in its estimates.

Although the military manpower picture won't change much between now and July 1, after that the defense department and selective service expect a number of changes. Chances are the defense department will jump draft calls to about 45,000 a month, selective service will make some changes in draft regulations and both will be scurrying to make sure enough draftable men will be available to meet defense needs.

Depends On Situation

This all depends, however, on whether the international situation gets better or worse. Of course, a changeover to a plan of universal military training (UMT) would cause considerable revamping of most military manpower planning. President Eisenhower ordered his

Reds Profiteer On Seized Food

Berlin, Aug. 10 (AP)—Refugees from the Russian zone reported today that the Communists were staging a big swindle by selling confiscated American food in their state-owned stores at profiteering prices.

Red propagandists have widely advertised that the American food parcels which they have been confiscating from East Germans are being given back to "needy West Berliners."

But refugee reports say much of the stolen food—especially milk and fats—finds its way onto the tables of Communist party officials. Other stocks are wrapped in labels of the HO (Handels Organization) state stores and sold there. These stores sell off-the-ration foods which many workers cannot afford to buy.

Beria Case Goes Via Rubber Stamp To Supreme Court

Soviet Parliament Gives Order Confirming His Ouster for His Activities

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Soviet Parliament rubber-stamped its approval today of the purging of Lavrenty P. Beria and ordered the case against the Kremlin's former No. 2 man to the Soviet Supreme Court.

The decree of the Supreme Council (Parliament), broadcast by Moscow radio, indicated that the stage is being set for the trial of Premier Georgi M. Malenkov's one-time top deputy who rose to power as the head of Stalin's dreaded secret police.

The broadcast said the Council had confirmed the 54-year-old Beria's ouster for "criminal and anti-state activities," approved stripping him of "all awards and ranks, and (approved) transferring (his) case for consideration by the U.S.R.R. Supreme Court."

Came After Applause

Ironically, the Parliament acted at a session in which earlier it had wildly applauded announcement of a new Soviet achievement in a program which the west generally believed Beria bossed—the development of atomic weapons.

Malenkov told the council on Saturday that the United States no longer had a monopoly on the hydrogen bomb. The west accepted the statement as an announcement that Russia has built, or knows how to build, the fearful bomb. Many experts were skeptical of Malenkov's claim, however.

Beria's downfall early in July came after persistent rumors of a titanic struggle for power in the Soviet high command. It launched a widespread purge of his proteges and favorites both within the Soviet Union and in various of the restless satellites.

Malenkov himself presented the charges against his longtime associate, accusing him of planning to take over the Soviet government and of plotting with foreign imperialists.

Bellemore Flier Hurt In Monticello Crash

Monticello, Aug. 10 (AP)—Paul J. Walkowski, 40, of Bellemore, remained in serious condition today after crash-landing his sports plane on a farm field yesterday at nearby White Lake.

Walkowski, his Cessna Craft forced down by a heavy rainstorm in the area, suffered a fractured skull and other head injuries.

Conference Is Held

A conference was held shortly before noon today between Attorney Frederick H. Stang and representatives of the Grand Union Company relative to use of a blacktop drive connecting its new supermarket property on Albany avenue with Madison avenue. Stang, who represented residential property owners, pointed out that under the agreement setting up a "buffer zone" along Madison avenue, the street could not be used as a means of ingress or egress. Further conferences may be held and no announcement was made on the results of today's conference.

Bleak Picture Is Ahead on Budget And Tax Revision

Facts Indicate Eisenhower Will Have Tough Time Keeping Up to His Balance Plan

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Congressional sources said today a bleak budget picture is throwing a heavy pall over a broad tax revision program firmly promised for next year.

They commented as the House Ways and Means Committee neared the end (probably Wednesday) of weeks of hearings, often running well into the night, on the complex subject.

A tentative program of the proposals they would like most to adopt is shaping up in the minds of some lawmakers.

But the problem was this: Almost all these proposals, certainly the ones with the most steam behind them, would cost substantial reductions in revenue.

To Have Tough Problem

And the plain facts indicate the Eisenhower administration will have a major headache next year in keeping revenue high enough to reach the long-promised goal of a balanced budget.

As one informed and influential source put it, "it looks like a battle between more justice in tax laws, and a loss in revenue. That's a hard choice."

The fiscal facts are these: The administration estimates spending for the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, at about 74 billion dollars. Income is estimated at 68½ billion, leaving a deficit of 5½ billion.

The administration is firmly committed to permit two big tax reductions—a 10 per cent cut in individual income taxes, and expiration of the excess profits tax, both on Jan. 1.

Another Big Bite

Further, scheduled cuts in corporation income taxes and excise or sales taxes—set for April 1—would take another big bite of income.

Altogether, the losses would reduce revenue to about 62 or 63 billion dollars, at present economic levels.

That means, to balance the budget, spending would have to be reduced up to 12 billion dollars under the present rate—or the tax cuts will have to be canceled, or new tax increases imposed.

Both Eisenhower and congressional leaders have promised action next year on the broad tax revision program. A look at the most important and most likely revision steps shows they could cost an additional loss of several billion dollars in revenue.

Major Proposals

These are the major proposals drawing the most support from witnesses before the ways and means committee and from lawmakers:

1. A tax benefit for working wives, to compensate for the costs of caring for their children at home. One proposal would cost about 750 million dollars a year.

2. Bigger deductions for medical and dental expenses. Present laws permit deductions only for medi-

None of Survivors Is Hurt Seriously — Earlier Reports Erroneous

Wiesbaden, Germany, Aug. 10 (AP)—All 24 men who parachuted from their disabled C-119 flying boxcar over the Libyan Desert late Saturday night have been found alive, the U. S. Air Force's European headquarters said here today.

Twenty-one of the airmen were found earlier today. The other three were spotted later by an air rescue party.

The plane crashed in the desert 60 miles south of the big U. S. air force base at Wheelus Field, Tripoli.

The survivors, none seriously jured, were taken by helicopter and ground rescue teams to the air force hospital at Wheelus.

To Be Released

An air force spokesman said that the names of the survivors probably would be released later.

The plane, carrying a crew of 6 and 18 passengers, was on a flight across the Mediterranean from Udine, Italy, to Wheelus Field.

Earlier reports said the craft crashed in the sea and five survivors had been picked up, but the wreckage and the survivors were spotted in the desert today from the air by Col. Royal Anthis, commander of the Wheelus air base.

One report said that the passengers were members of the U. S. service baseball team and several officers on their way to Wheelus.

The plane had been missing since Saturday midnight, when it reported that it was 30 to 50 miles off the North African coast. British, American and Italian planes from Naples, Wheelus and Malta had searched all day yesterday and resumed the hunt again today.

Rainfall Damage Reported Slight

A rainfall which poured nearly three inches in a few hours in at least one area of the Catskills left scattered but minor damage in the city and county yesterday and today.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., reported service thrown out from 5:44 to 7:50 a. m., at Sleightsburg, and a section of New Salem and Port Ewen due to a fallen wire at the latter place, but the New York Telephone Co., reported "no unusual trouble" caused to its lines by the storm.

Police and the sheriff's office were notified shortly after 5:40 a. m., that a live wire was down across Broadway in Port Ewen and the information was relayed to Central Hudson.

In Kingston a manhole cover was reported off in the Broadway underpass at 10:01, and at 10:52 a blocked drainage basin flooded the intersection at Broadway and O'Reilly street. Again at 11:45 a manhole cover was reported off in the underpass, and at 11:46 Louis Sapp, Sr., of 150 Clinton avenue reported a sewer drainage basin blocked near his house, and he said the water was flooding his

Canadian Liberals Expected To Win Nation's Balloting

Toronto, Aug. 10 (AP)—Voters across Canada marked ballots today in an election widely expected to give Louis St. Laurent's Liberal party 4 to 5 more years of power.

Even the most vocal supporters of the opposition Progressive Conservative (Tory) party were dubious of ousting St. Laurent as prime minister. The opposition remembered the drubbing popular "Uncle Louis" handed them last time around.

In 1949's elections he spearheaded the greatest political victory in Canadian history, his party winning 72 per cent of the seats in the House of Commons.

Here and there, the Liberals had lost favor in the last four years—but seemingly not on a scale to warrant much optimism for George Drew. As Conservative leader, Drew would succeed St. Laurent in the event of a Tory victory.

The Liberals came to power under W. L. Mackenzie King's leadership in 1935, riding much the same wave of sentiment that elected Franklin D. Roosevelt three years earlier. Victory today would promise the Liberals, at least 22 years total tenure, beating the Democrats' 20-year stay in the White House. The Canadian term is nominally five years, but a government can call an election before its time expires. The Liberals called this one well ahead of their 1954 deadline.

The only offices at stake today were 263 Commons seats, representing as many districts. (The Liberals won two other seats without opposition. The party winning a majority forms the government, naming the prime minister. He in turn appoints a cabinet.

St. Laurent's and Drew's names appeared on the ballot only in their own districts.

Soviets May Have Small Scale Bomb, Atom Scientist Declares in Washington

BY FRANK E. CAREY
(AP) Science Reporter

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The next week or so could be a tense watch-and-wait period for American officials scanning the atmosphere for proof of Russia's boast that it has the dread hydrogen bomb.

This follows from the unofficial view of a well known atomic scientist, Dr. Ralph Lapp of Washington, D. C., that:

1. Russia may actually have done a "small scale" test of a proximite H-bomb late last week—small scale insofar as the hydrogen end of it, but conceivably involving a triggering atomic bomb 10 times as powerful as the one dropped on Nagasaki.

2. By Lapp's own estimate it would take at least a week for radioactivity detection devices to verify such an event. While the United States has never said how it detected the first Russian A-blast in 1949, Lapp suggested America's nationwide system for scenting the atmosphere from radioactivity from Nevada tests probably has "global arms extending right up to the Iron Curtain."

Reaction Is Varied

Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov's announcement to the Soviet Parliament Saturday that "the United States no longer has the monopoly of the hydrogen bomb" continued to set off shock waves of reaction throughout the free world.

Most of it was on the skeptical side, but there were many expressions that it at least could be true.

One effect of Malenkov's announcement was to jar loose what seemed like confirmation of speculation that the United States has unlocked the secret of the H-bomb.

Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.), a member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, in voicing suspicion of the Russian claim, said: "why, we didn't know we had one ourselves until last October when we exploded a hydrogen device."

Says Production Mastered

Rep. Hinshaw (D-Calif.), also a committee member, said: "we mastered production of the hydrogen bomb and all other aspects of it a year ago, so it is not surprising that the Russians claim to have developed it now."

Another member, Rep. Durham (D-N. C.), did not make such a flat statement as these. But he said the committee realized Russia's H-bomb potential long ago—"that is the reason we worked so hard last year to double this country's capacity to produce the hydrogen bomb."

Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N.M.) also a member, said he considered it a "definite possibility" that Russia has the H-bomb. Rep. Cole (R-N. Y.), committee chairman, said at his home in Bath, N. Y.: "we can not gamble that it is not true."

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), who is not a member of the committee, said on an NBC television show last night he does not believe the Russians have the H-bomb but "we know we have the bomb."

President Is Silent

President Eisenhower had no comment on Malenkov's announcement and in Denver, where the President is vacationing, his aides said no comment was expected.

The nearest approach to an official claim that America had the H-bomb came from former President Truman in his State of the Union message to Congress last January. Referring to the 1951-52 tests at Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific, Truman said:

"We have entered another stage in the world-shaking development of atomic energy. From now on, man moves into a new era of destructive power, capable of creating explosions of a new order of magnitude dwarfing the mushroom clouds of Hiroshima and Nagasaki."

Newspapers on both sides of the Iron Curtain frontpaged Malenkov's announcement. But because of the weekend, editorial and official comment in western Europe was negligible.

Get Your Bolivia Rules Straight

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Everybody who likes the game of samba will also like the new game called Bolivia. The chief difference between the two games is that you can meld a canasta of wild cards in the new game. Such a meld, always consisting of exactly seven wild cards, is called a Bolivia and earns you a bonus of 1500 points.

Many sumba players will consider this rule a great advantage. One of the important problems in the new game, Bolivia. You effective use of your wild cards. There are 18 wild cards altogether (six jokers and 12 deuces), and if you get more than your normal share of them in samba you often have to throw them into the discard pile just to get rid of them.

This is practically never done in the new game, Bolivia. You save your wild cards carefully in order to form a canasta of wild cards. Theoretically, you can make two such canastas since this would require only 14 of the 18 wild cards.

In practice, however, you seldom have the chance to make two Bolivias. Your opponents are careful not to discard their wild cards, and it is unusual for one side to obtain 14 wild cards by normal methods.

In the new game you seldom use wild cards to help you complete your initial meld. That is, you seldom used a wild card together with two or more natural cards in the same meld. You prefer to keep all of your wild cards for use in building up a Bolivia. For this reason, mixed canastas are somewhat rare. You concentrate on sequence canastas and wild-card canastas, and the pure canastas are a by-product, while mixed canastas are more or less accidental.

It is a good idea to put down a meld of three or more wild cards fairly early in any hand. This gives your partner a parking spot for any odd wild cards that he may be holdnig.

Q—Are you ever allowed to discard a red three in any variety of canasta?

A—No. In every game of the canasta family (canasta, samba, Bolivia, Chilean canasta, and so on) the rule is that you can never discard a red three.

Q—How many points do you need to win the game in the various forms of canasta?

A—In regular canasta, you need 5,000 points. In samba you need 10,000 points. In Bolivia canasta you need 15,000 points.

Get Your Bolivia Rules Straight

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Everybody who likes the game of samba will also like the new game called Bolivia. The chief difference between the two games is that you can meld a canasta of wild cards in the new game. Such a meld, always consisting of exactly seven wild cards, is called a Bolivia and earns you a bonus of 1500 points.

Many sumba players will consider this rule a great advantage. One of the important problems in the new game, Bolivia. You effective use of your wild cards. There are 18 wild cards altogether (six jokers and 12 deuces), and if you get more than your normal share of them in samba you often have to throw them into the discard pile just to get rid of them.

This is practically never done in the new game, Bolivia. You save your wild cards carefully in order to form a canasta of wild cards. Theoretically, you can make two such canastas since this would require only 14 of the 18 wild cards.

In practice, however, you seldom have the chance to make two Bolivias. Your opponents are careful not to discard their wild cards, and it is unusual for one side to obtain 14 wild cards by normal methods.

In the new game you seldom use wild cards to help you complete your initial meld. That is, you seldom used a wild card together with two or more natural cards in the same meld. You prefer to keep all of your wild cards for use in building up a Bolivia. For this reason, mixed canastas are somewhat rare. You concentrate on sequence canastas and wild-card canastas, and the pure canastas are a by-product, while mixed canastas are more or less accidental.

It is a good idea to put down a meld of three or more wild cards fairly early in any hand. This gives your partner a parking spot for any odd wild cards that he may be holdnig.

Q—Are you ever allowed to discard a red three in any variety of canasta?

A—No. In every game of the canasta family (canasta, samba, Bolivia, Chilean canasta, and so on) the rule is that you can never discard a red three.

Q—How many points do you need to win the game in the various forms of canasta?

A—In regular canasta, you need 5,000 points. In samba you need 10,000 points. In Bolivia canasta you need 15,000 points.

. . . Bull fights

A baseball pitcher getting ready for a game uses a bull pen. The allusion was adopted by sports writers who compared the small bull pen in actual bull fights to the place where the pitcher gets ready to enter the game and sometimes the slaughter.

CONCENTRATED WEALTH

A wheat farmer has all of his eggs in one basket. On a plane out of Kansas City, we talked about this situation recently.

I said to him; "Anybody whose wealth is concentrated within an area of 10 square miles should aim to get a broade. geographical diversification. Sell 500 acres of your inflation-valued land and invest the capital in chemical, oil and motor stocks."

This 10-square-mile idea first came to me years ago when a capitalist, since deceased, told me of his Manhattan Island, New York city, possessons. He had been born and reared in this city. He had seen New York grow in population, wealth and prestige. His pride in the city was perfectly natural.

But 10 years ago, when his estate was being settled, the cash bequests in his will had to be forgotten. And the once solid assets in the deteriorating sections of New York had to be sold at a fraction of their former value. His will was a bold one; but his executors had to be anything but bold in carrying out its provisions.

Concentrated wealth often has to be sold under the hammer to satisfy tax claims. The magnificent residence of the late steel magnate Cnarles M. Schwab, on Riverside Drive, New York city, was an economic liability to his estate. His executors tried to give the house away to escape tax assessments. It was offered to New York city as an official residence for the mayor. The city wouldn't take it for nothing. Expenses of maintaining it and removal of the property from tax rolls prevented it.

In sound investment, reasonable diversification of place, of industry, of management is advisable. A Kansas wheat farmer, full of justifiable pride in his state and apparently secure in his ability to manage his acres profitably through thick and thin, should, nevertheless, send some of his money out of his community and entrust it to equally efficient managers of other industries.

The barriers of proper diversification are easily established. At perhaps age 35, a young executive comes into his own. He is very successful. The day arrives (how often I have heard this!) when he says: "I will not invest a dollar in any enterprise that I cannot control or at least have an important voice managing."

He builds an economic world all about himself and, as the decades pass, and his success grows, the need of diversification seems to become less and less. His wealth gets settled within a "10 square mile' area and eventually the laws of economic life catch up with him.

A young investor saying $25 a month from the day he lands his first job should keep this diversification in mind. For three consecutive years, he puts aside a little more than $300 a year. Then, later, when promotion and salary enable him to save $50 a month, he should guard against putting all his eggs in one basket.

Every investor should be a law unto himself. What makes thrift, saving and investment a thrilling act is that it could and should be built around the personality of the individual involved.

I wish that more young people especially would give more time and attention to the thrift, saving and investment side of their lives. Economic success is not everything. But it should be an integral part of every life.

No person should consciously speculate without first setting up sound economic plans. Cash in a bank is cash in a bank. Insurance values, fluctuating within the confines of inflation and deflation, are steady assets for all people to own. Common stocks that have paid dividends unfailingly for 25 years fit into any investor's program.

SIGN OF THE SNAIL

The snail is fast becoming the symbol of resistance activities against the Russians in East Germany. Simple drawings of the snail are now found on factories and public buildings along with anti-Red slogans. Some workers are using the sign as a method of identification of anti-Communists.

In World War II a similar movement swept across Norway and Denmark during the Nazi occupation. There the smybol of resistance was the turtle and German officials soon began to see turtles in their worst dreams. Wherever the sign of the turtle appeared production slow-downs and sabotage were sure to follow.

The first phase of the work of the resistance movement which is using the drawings of snails as its symbol was a work slow-down. The drawings began to appear before the first riots and they are now quite familiar to the Reds who rule East Germany. Officials are powerless to keep them from being drawn on the walls. It takes only a minute for a disgruntled German to draw the snail and move off.

For a long time the Russians were able to keep the world from knowing that there was real resistance to their activities in the satellites. Now that is no longer a secret. The sign of the snail will continue to haunt the Reds at every turn. Wherever they go they will be made aware of the smouldering hatred and resentment against them which is held by most of the East Germans. The resistance movement may get results slowly at first but it should be remembered that a snail gets where he is going eventually.

RED REPLY

The Russians have accepted a Big Four invitation to participate in a conference next fall on the matter of unifying Germany and easing the tensions in the world. As usual the Red reply was couched in conditions, propaganda and insolence. Someday the Reds will give a clear and direct reply to a question put to them and when they do they will really startle a world that has grown used to their double-talk.

The Reds believe that it would be better to postpone the discussions of a peace treaty for Austria until after the problem of Germany is settled. They also think that a great deal more could be accomplished at the conference if Red China were permitted to sit in. Their note denounced the fact that the foreign ministers of France, Britain and the United States had discussed some of the topics to be considered at the fall conference at a previous meeting.

The conference next fall could accomplish a great deal. If the Reds are serious about wanting a unified Germany they could prove it by agreeing to free elections in Germany and by cooperating to achieve a peace treaty for Austria, a treaty that has already been delayed too long.

But if the Reds intend to turn the conference into a platform for launching propaganda attacks nothing will be accomplished and the rest of the world still will know just where to lay the blame.

RUNNING A CITY

Regardless of who is elected New York City's mayor this fall, there is wide agreement that the present form of government must be changed. The quality of the administrations has gone steadily down, and lack of centralized responsibility is held the cause.

Governor Dewey has recommended serious attention to the city manager form of charter which has given wide satisfaction not only in many small cities but such large ones as Cincinnati and Kansas City.

Now the mayor-manager type, adopted by Philadelphia in 1951, and going into operation in New Orleans next May, has its advocates. This provides for a mayor, who decides policies, and a professional manager, who does the actual running of the city. In Philadelphia this has worked well, partly because of the high caliber of the present mayor. To do as well New York should elect equally good men. Systems make a difference, but do not tell the whole story.

'These Days'

THE 83rd CONGRESS

No matter how popular or unpopular a President may be, in the final analysis his Administration stands or falls on the work of the Congress. Whatever program he may have for the improvement of the country must be passed by Congress. Whenever a President has faced an antagonistic Congress for a prolonged period, the country has suffered. The worst example of this in recent years was the relations between President Herbert Hoover and the Democratic Congress elected in 1930. The country was paralyzed because neither the Executive nor Congress could function properly.

The first session of the 83rd Congress may be regarded as an Eisenhower Congress. Both political parties supported the President. The leadership of the Democratic Party particularly was unwilling to take advantage of the fact that the Republicans at no time had a working majority. Furthermore, the Republicans were divided into factions held together only by the personality and leadership of Robert A. Taft. At a dozen points, this session could have been disrupted by parliamentary tricks or by a coalition of anti-Eisenhower Republicans and Democrats. It did not happen because of the general decision to give Eisenhower a chance and because the country was in crisis during the entire period, and because of Taft's moral leadership.

Yet, the point must be made that many Republicans are sorely disappointed by this session of Congress and fear its consequences in the 1954 election. I sensed this attitude during the Taft funeral in Washington when conversation naturally turned on the great loss the Republicans suffered by his death. It was the last day of the session and members of Congress of either party were deeply concerned.

Many of the experienced legislators expressed disbelief in the continuance of Democratic support for Eisenhower in the second session of the 83rd Congress because it will not pay the Democrats to go along. They will be paving the way for their own victory in 1954.

Some felt that the violence of the attack on Senator McCarthy in the last days of this session was a portent of events to come. They said that while it was true that the Democrats were laying for McCarthy, the vehemence of the attack is designed to make a record for 1954. It needs to be recalled that Senator John McClellan had, in the past, been one of the strongest supporters not only of McCarthy personally but of his methods, his probes and his attitudes. Yet it was McClellan who led the fight on McCarthy on an issue which the public perhaps missed, namely, the control of the staff.

The Republicans will go into the second session of the 83rd Congress without a majority in the Senate and with only a fractional majority in the House of Representatives. There will be no Taft to hold the party together by moral suasion. Senator Wayne Morse, the solo Independent Party, can play a critical role unless some of the elders in the Democratic Party continue supporting the Republicans to provide a synthetic majority.

Taft's most important role in this session was to act as a bridge between the White House and the Congress. That role will now be taken on by the Vice President, Richard Nixon, who has not yet developed the stature to lead his colleagues. Senators Knowland, Bridges, Millikin, Dirksen and Ferguson are influential among Republicans, but how effective it is impossible to say. The 1954 election may bring strength to either party; it is too early even to guess.

It was in this atmosphere of uncertainty and even shock that this first session of the 83rd Congress adjourned, having failed to accomplish the three principal objectives of the Republican Party:

1. Get out of the Korean War with dignity and honor;
2. Cut taxes;
3. Get subversives out of the government.

Only the first of these objectives has even been approached by the truce; the other two have been postponed. Neither the Eisenhower Administration nor the 83rd Congress is to blame for the huge debt, the high taxes, the depreciated currency or the unbalanced budget with its huge deficit. These they inherited from Truman, but they are responsible for an unrealistic approach to these problems—realism requiring that government expenditures be cut to the bone.

The political question that faces those who will run for office in 1954 is whether there will be time to retrieve their position by November, 1954.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

SURGICAL REMOVAL OF TONSILS

I have written before of the middle-aged man who, after a severe physical effort, felt that there was something wrong with his heart and consulted a heart specialist. The heart specialist, after careful examination, advised him to have his tonsils removed and to "take it easy." He eased up on his physical work but refused to have his tonsils removed because his son who had had his tonsils removed, a couple of years previously had bled for a couple of days after operation; the father decided on his own accord not to have his tonsils removed. He died some weeks later as the poison from his diseased tonsils had infected his heart.

What about bleeding after surgical removal of tonsils (tonsillectomy). In Laryngoscope a few months ago, Dr. Samuel L. Fox reported that in a plan finally accepted after tonsillectomy. every patient is sent home with detailed printed instructions, including the following rules:

1.—The patient should stay in bed two days after operation, remain quiet the third, go outdoors the fourth in good weather but avoid running, bending and similar exertion for at least seven days. School or light work is resumed on the eighth day.

2.—To stimulate daily bowel movement, 2 to 4 teaspoons of Phospo-Soda may be taken in water or an enema given.

3.—An adult with dry throat or bad breath may gargle four or five times daily, using ¼ teaspoon of table salt in a glass of lukewarm water.

4.—Muscle spasm is prevented by commencing to swallow immediately after operation.

5.—Frequent small meals are preferable; all food and drink should be cold or lukewarm.

First day — Fluids may consist of abundant water, milk, ginger ale, broth, ice cream, or sherbert, eggnog, prune juice, or cold sweetened orange or grapefruit juice.

Second day—Food is begun but only soft cooked cereal, custard, madshed potato, pureed vegetables, soft boiled or poached eggs, gelatin desserts and the like are given. Children must take plenty of fluid but are not forced to eat. Painful spasm is relieved by chewing between meals.

Third day — Cooked meat is allowed if finely cut and well-chewed.

Next four days — Ordinary diet is restored, omitting dry toast and crackers. Alcoholic beverages are withheld for two weeks and also withheld are hot or highly seasoned food and drink. Moderate pain in the ears with temperature up to 100 degrees F. may be relieved by hot water bottle or heating pad, but if severe pain or high temperature occurs, the physician must be called.

If bleeding occurs, a mixture of one part hydrogen peroxide and three parts cool water is gargled while sitting up; ice may be sucked. If bleeding continues, a doctor is called or the patient is taken to the hospital in a car without delay.

Sailor Beware

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The three-way battle for authority to develop hydroelectric power resources of the Niagara River, below Niagara Falls, is apparently going to be decided by the U. S. Senate on the basis of how much "socialism" there is in it.

This is the eastern equivalent to the Hell's Canyon fight in the west. How it is settled will play a big part in determining the Eisenhower Administration's electric power policy.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey came to Washington to deny that there was any "socialism" in his proposal to have the New York State Power Authority develop and market the Niagara power.

But New York private power companies have been waging a heavy public relations campaign to argue that there was no difference between federal socialism and state socialism, and that Governor Dewey's proposal was state socialism.

The Committee for Constitutional Government, with headquarters in New York, has also been conducting a heavy mail barrage on Washington to convince Congress that Governor Dewey's program is socialism. Included in this organization's exhibits are leaflets headed, "Denationalize Electric Power," by Prof. O. Glenn Saxon of Yale; and "Federal Socialization of Electric Power," by ex-President Herbert Hoover.

Governor Dewey Declares

Curiously enough, in his statement before the Senate Public Works Committee, Governor Dewey declared that before he could be convicted of socialism, it would be necessary to convict Theodore Roosevelt, Charles Evans Hughes and Herbert Hoover, sponsor of the Hoover Dam.

Thus an apparent effort was being made to use ex-President Hoover as a witness on both sides of the argument. But Governor Dewey insisted that the argument of socialism was dead.

"Suppose someone called it 'creeping socialism?' " Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee asked. After the laughter died down, Governor Dewey replied that if it was creeping socialism, it did its creeping 30 years ago and was now old.

"I find that I am now being accused of being a radical," said Governor Dewey, "whereas before, I was always called a conservative. But I still stand exactly where I have always stood."

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon broke in here to observe wryly, "That's what always happens when you adopt a liberal idea," and everybody laughed again.

All three of the congressional proposals on Niagara power development start out by declaring an intent to preserve the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls. What the fight is about is whether this $400 million, two billion kilowatts of electric energy shall be controlled by the federal government, the state of New York, or five private power companies.

House Has Made Choice

The House of Representatives has already made its choice—in favor of the private power companies. By a vote of 262 to 120, on July 9, the House passed the Dondero-Miller bill, directing the Federal Power Commission to issue licenses to the private companies.

In so doing, the House passed up Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr's. bill to authorize the Army Corps of Engineers to do the work, and Rep. Frank J. Becker's proposal to let the New York State Power Authority do the job.

So now the project is before the Senate. Here Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York supports federal government development. Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana supports the House-passed Miller-Dondero bill for private enterprise development. And Sen. Irving M. Ives of New York supports his state's Power Authority plans.

The fact that the Congress itself is making this decision, instead of the Federal Power Commission which was created by Congress in 1920 to decide these things, is due to a legislative fluke.

FPC, early in July, announced it would issue a license to New York Power Authority to develop the St. Lawrence power projects. But in 1950, when the U. S. Senate ratified the treaty with Canada on joint St. Lawrence development, a rider was attached. It specified that "no project for the development of such waters shall be undertaken until it can be specifically authorized by Act of Congress." That cut FPC right out of the picture.

If the Senate now passes the House-passed Dondero-Miller bill giving the license for Niagara development to the five companies, Governor Dewey has indicated he will challenge the constitutionality of the act.

Malenkov Statement Considered Good News for Americans—No H-Bomb Use Foreseen

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 10—It's good news for America—that Malenkov says Soviet Russia has the hydrogen bomb. He now knows its destructiveness.

It's good news because a weapon of such devastating power probably will never be used against the peoples of either Soviet Russia or the United States—the deterrent influence will increase as knowledge of its danger grows.

The United States would never want to use the H-bomb unless attacked and the government of Soviet Russia would never dare to use it. For it could mean a retaliation that would destroy the Russian people.

It's good news also because America not only has a tremendous lead in the production of atomic weapons but now has an incentive for her industrial machine to maintain that lead indefinitely.

It is of secondary importance whether Soviet Russia actually has developed one hydrogen bomb or has reached the point of knowing how to manufacture many more. What is important is that Malenkov saw fit to make a public announcement saying that the United States has "not for a long time" enjoyed a monopoly in the production of either the A-bomb or the H-bomb.

Why did the Communist leader say so at this time? Examination of the pertinent passages of his speech reveals clearly that he was trying to give the lie to those who construed the recent Soviet peace offensive as due to internal weakness. The more he developed his theme, however, the more he revealed that his basic reason is a fear of internal forces hostile to him.

The entire address was significant of the "defense mechanism" which operates in Soviet psychology today. The world must be assured, it seems, that the Communists won the Korean war, that the language of force which is so often referred to by American spokesmen will not frighten Soviet Russia, and that traitors like Beria are not going to make any headway in the Kremlin.

The more these efforts to convey an impression of strength in top leadership are studied, the more they seem to betray deep-seated fears and insecurity.

American policy, of course, has to be based only on safe assumptions—not on wishful thinking. The long-range effect of the Malenkov announcement will be to step up American production of atomic weapons and to make sure that the air power necessary to carry the bombs to their destination—if war does break out—will be available instantly, no matter what the sacrifice now.

Another factor that will loom large from now on is overseas bases. Malenkov's statement may frighten some European countries into policies of "neutralism" as between America and Soviet Russia. They may be so fearful of an H-bomb or so misled by Communist propaganda as to seek to restrain American air forces from using overseas bases or accumulating bombs there. Already the British government is relying on an assurance formally given when Mr. Truman was president that no A-bombs will ever be started from bases in England toward an enemy without a full-fledged consultation in advance of such action. This could mean delay and, in an atomic war, could mean the difference between survival or disaster.

The safest way for America to proceed is to acquire or lease as many overseas bases on land as possible in different parts of the world, and to have also a sufficient number of floating bases in the form of huge aircraft carriers and small carriers stationed in waters near the European theatre of possible war so the United States will not be beholden to any countries which at some future time might succumb to Communist infiltration.

Out of the whole atomic scare may come a much more important result —a chance for an era of real peace instead of war. This will not ensue just because of a fear of the terrible consequences of atomic warfare as such. Fear of death by an artillery shell or a bomb has not prevented wars in the past. Germ warfare, as developed today, can be far more devastating than an H-bomb. Chemical gas warfare was tried by both sides in World War I but abandoned in World War II as mutually too destructive to armies even though scientists had increased its deadliness by many times.

The biggest single influence that may come out of the atomic arms race is the growing knowledge by all peoples that they alone must decide their own fate. The H-bomb isn't as important as the hand that decides to throw it. Dictatorships may become so dangerous that peoples will not take a chance by tolerating them.

The disintegration of the Communist dictatorship has already begun. If American spokesmen and policy-makers will seize the opportunity to tell the people of the Soviet Union and the satellite states how they can avoid the hazard of war by ridding themselves of a warmongering dictatorship which is at the moment quaking in its boots, progress will be begun toward a real peace in the world.

Food could be a mightier force for peace than the H-bomb. East Germany has revealed that hungry people are not afraid to defy dictatorships. There is progress toward sanity in the world—toward a realization some day soon of the simple fact that 13 men in Moscow's Politburo cannot always control 200,000,000 peace-loving people.

To Get 160 Millionth

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—America gets its 160 millionth person some time about 10 a. m. today (EST)—almost 9 million above the official census figure of three years ago. That's the reckoning of a 10-foot high machine ticking away in the Commerce Department lobby. Census officials arranged a special ceremony to mark the event there. The machine records a net gain of one person every 12 seconds. It figures on a birth every 8 seconds and a death every 21 seconds. It also takes into account the number of persons entering and leaving the country.

Star Shower Due Tonight

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A shower of shooting stars—as many as 40 or 50 in an hour—may be seen tonight through Friday night, the American museum-Hayden Planetarium says. The Planetarium adds that the best time for watching the shower of meteors is after midnight and the best places are away from the bright lights of cities. The stellar show is the annual Perseid meteor shower, so called because the meteors seem to diverge from the constellation of Perseus in the northern sky.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Aug. 9—Regardless of the partisan division of strength in the Senate, the Republicans of the strictly constitutional persuasion are only about one-third of the membership. It is impossible, of course, to draw a firm straight line, separating the deviationists, as the Communist would call such erratics, from the kiver-to-kiver Republicans. For example, even Joe McCarthy, who is damned as an "isolationist" and "reactionary," is not an unconditional hard-core man. On foreign policy and foreign expenditures, he runs with President Eisenhower and thus with his worst enemy, Lehman, of New York. Yet, as a fighting anti-Red and a political heavyweight who has warned Eisenhower not to push him around, he is an acceptable Republican.

On the eastern seaboard, including New England, most of the ostensible Republicans must be written off or heavily discounted. Margaret Smith, of Maine, would be an acceptable Democrat. She would not have to drop any present principle or adopt any new one. Ives, of New York, and Saltonstall, of Massachusetts, are about the same. The two Connecticut plebes, Prescott Bush and William Purtell, give no sign of meeting the minimum general requirements of hard-core men. They probably should be written off. John Williams, of Delaware, and John Bricker, of Ohio, are, if not the two best, then certainly two of the best unconditional Republicans. The definition of this type of Republican is one who is pro-American in all things, including American sovereignty, foreign policy and foreign spending, economy in government, the United Nations, taxation and the ramification of the federal government in the private lives of the citizens through agencies and laws which were unthinkable before the brain-washing process of the New Deal began in 1933.

Many serious impairments of the constitutional rights of the people are carried on through the unions. These include denial of due process through the mock-trials of union kangaroo courts, denial of the right to work, and confiscation of money by fines and assessments. Such invasions of the personal life of the citizen are the policy and the actual acts of the federal government. The unions could not do these things except by governmental desire.

A canvass of these Republicans would require a dull analysis of the conduct of each in minute instances. Some are flabby.

Dirksen, of Illinois, who had momentary illusions of grandeur at the 1952 convention and even aroused some hopes in other true Republicans, is a weak one. On foreign policy and expenditures, he threw in with "my President," accepting not Ike's leadership, but the ill-disguised dictation of a political force of eastern manipulators. Dirksen knows that the President gets his policies in these matters from the same operators who engineered his nomination in Chicago. Dirksen is not as far gone as Smith, Saltonstall and Ives, but he is vacillating.

Who are the reliables, then? I would include McCarthy because he has developed into a power opposed to the worst of Ike's backing. That backing includes, strangely enough, Lehman, the New York Democrat, who has been appeased by Ike at every turn on the admission of unqualified and highly questionable European refugees and on foreign relations. It is ironic and baffling that a president who is nominally Republican should run with a senator who is so radically Democratic and repudiate the most authentic Republicans. But there you are. These strange facts cannot be simplified nor shrugged off. They mean that a new political party is coming into being whose main purposes, when they are finally put into a charter, will be intense patriotism, the preservation of the republic as opposed to the Socialist authority inherent in the New Deal and the unions, and the expulsion of the federal government from the affairs of the states and of the people.

In one phase there is a seeming inconsistency which is clarified in a few words. Senator Taft and other hard-core men accepted "federal aid" to clear slums and provide homes for our own displaced persons. How can that position be reconciled to the hard-core's opposition to federal subsidies to the states? The answer is simple. The federal government has hogged so much revenue that the states have none left to finance such works under their own sovereignty. These emergencies can't wait until the federal government has been driven out of these taxing jurisdictions. Meanwhile, any state which denies itself "federal money" for such reasons is robbing itself of its own comeback money.

The hard-core Republicans include Bridges, of New Hampshire; Malone, of Nevada; Schoeppel, of Kansas; Young, of North Dakota; Dworshak and Welker, of Idaho; Ferguson, of Michigan; Capehart and Jenner, of Indiana; Goldwater, of Arizona; Butler, of Maryland; Bennett, of Utah; and Martin, of Pennsylvania. There are others with string-halt and the Botts who can run when excited.

Knowland, of California, the new floor leader, is a compromiser

The drawings began to appear before the first riots and they are now quite familiar to the Reds who rule East Germany. Officials are powerless to keep them from being drawn on the walls. It takes only a minute for a disgruntled German to draw the snail and move off.

For a long time the Russians were able to keep the world from knowing that there was real resistance to their activities in the satellites. Now that is no longer a secret. The sign of the snail will continue to haunt the Reds at every turn. Wherever they go they will be made aware of the smouldering hatred and resentment against them which is held by most of the East Germans. The resistance movement may get results slowly at first but it should be remembered that a snail gets where he is going eventually.

RED REPLY

The Russians have accepted a Big Four invitation to participate in a conference next fall on the matter of unifying Germany and easing the tensions in the world. As usual the Red reply was couched in conditions, propaganda and insolence. Someday the Reds will give a clear and direct reply to a question put to them and when they do they will really startle a world that has grown used to their double-talk.

The Reds believe that it would be better to postpone the discussions of a peace treaty for Austria until after the problem of Germany is settled. They also think that a great deal more could be accomplished at the conference if Red China were permitted to sit in. Their note denounced the fact that the foreign ministers of France, Britain and the United States had discussed some of the topics to be considered at the fall conference at a previous meeting.

The conference next fall could accomplish a great deal. If the Reds are serious about wanting a unified Germany they could prove it by agreeing to free elections in Germany and by cooperating to achieve a peace treaty for Austria, a treaty that has already been delayed too long.

But if the Reds intend to turn the conference into a platform for launching propaganda attacks nothing will be accomplished and the rest of the world still will know just where to lay the blame.

RUNNING A CITY

Regardless of who is elected New York City's mayor this fall, there is wide agreement that the present form of government must be changed. The quality of the administrations has gone steadily down, and lack of centralized responsibility is held the cause.

Governor Dewey has recommended serious attention to the city manager form of charter which has given wide satisfaction not only in many small cities but such large ones as Cincinnati and Kansas City.

Now the mayor-manager type, adopted by Philadelphia in 1951, and going into operation in New Orleans next May, has its advocates. This provides for a mayor, who decides policies, and a professional manager, who does the actual running of the city. In Philadelphia this has worked well, partly because of the high caliber of the present mayor. To do as well New York should elect equally good men. Systems make a difference, but do not tell the whole story.

'These Days'

THE 83rd CONGRESS

No matter how popular or unpopular a President may be, in the final analysis his Administration stands or falls on the work of the Congress. Whatever program he may have for the improvement of the country must be passed by Congress. Whenever a President has faced an antagonistic Congress for a prolonged period, the country has suffered. The worst example of this in recent years was the relations between President Herbert Hoover and the Democratic Congress elected in 1930. The country was paralyzed because neither the Executive nor Congress could function properly.

The first session of the 83rd Congress may be regarded as an Eisenhower Congress. Both political parties supported the President. The leadership of the Democratic Party particularly was unwilling to take advantage of the fact that the Republicans at no time had a working majority. Furthermore, the Republicans were divided into factions held together only by the personality and leadership of Robert A. Taft. At a dozen points, this session could have been disrupted by parliamentary tricks or by a coalition of anti-Eisenhower Republicans and Democrats. It did not happen because of the general decision to give Eisenhower a chance and because the country was in crisis during the entire period, and because of Taft's moral leadership.

Yet, the point must be made that many Republicans are sorely disappointed by this session of Congress and fear its consequences in the 1954 election. I sensed this attitude during the Taft funeral in Washington when conversation naturally turned on the great loss the Republicans suffered by his death. It was the last day of the session and members of Congress of either party were deeply concerned.

Many of the experienced legislators expressed disbelief in the continuance of Democratic support for Eisenhower in the second session of the 83rd Congress because it will not pay the Democrats to go along. They will be paving the way for their own victory in 1954.

Some felt that the violence of the attack on Senator McCarthy in the last days of this session was a portent of events to come. They said that while it was true that the Democrats were laying for McCarthy, the vehemence of the attack is designed to make a record for 1954. It needs to be recalled that Senator John McClellan had, in the past, been one of the strongest supporters not only of McCarthy personally but of his methods, his probes and his attitudes. Yet it was McClellan who led the fight on McCarthy on an issue which the public perhaps missed, namely, the control of the staff.

The Republicans will go into the second session of the 83rd Congress without a majority in the Senate and with only a fractional majority in the House of Representatives. There will be no Taft to hold the party together by moral suasion. Senator Wayne Morse, the solo Independent Party, can play a critical role unless some of the elders in the Democratic Party continue supporting the Republicans to provide a synthetic majority.

Taft's most important role in this session was to act as a bridge between the White House and the Congress. That role will now be taken on by the Vice President, Richard Nixon, who has not yet developed the stature to lead his colleagues. Senators Knowland, Bridges, Millikin, Dirksen and Ferguson are influential among Republicans, but how effective it is impossible to say. The 1954 election may bring strength to either party; it is too early even to guess.

It was in this atmosphere of uncertainty and even shock that this first session of the 83rd Congress adjourned, having failed to accomplish the three principal objectives of the Republican Party:

1. Get out of the Korean War with dignity and honor;
2. Cut taxes;
3. Get subversives out of the government.

Only the first of these objectives has even been approached by the truce; the other two have been postponed. Neither the Eisenhower Administration nor the 83rd Congress is to blame for the huge debt, the high taxes, the depreciated currency or the unbalanced budget with its huge deficit. These they inherited from Truman, but they are responsible for an unrealistic approach to these problems—realism requiring that government expenditures be cut to the bone.

The political question that faces those who will run for office in 1954 is whether there will be time to retrieve their position by November, 1954.

That Body of Yours

SURGICAL REMOVAL OF TONSILS

I have written before of the middle-aged man who, after a severe physical effort, felt that there was something wrong with his heart and consulted a heart specialist. The heart specialist, after careful examination, advised him to have his tonsils removed and to "take it easy." He eased up on his physical work but refused to have his tonsils removed because his son who had had his tonsils removed, a couple of years previously had bled for a couple of days after operation; the father decided on his own accord not to have his tonsils removed. He died some weeks later as the poison from his diseased tonsils had infected his heart.

What about bleeding after surgical removal of tonsils (tonsillectomy). In Laryngoscope a few months ago, Dr. Samuel L. Fox reported that in a plan finally accepted after tonsillectomy. every patient is sent home with detailed printed instructions, including the following rules:

1.—The patient should stay in bed two days after operation, remain quiet the third, go outdoors the fourth in good weather but avoid running, bending and similar exertion for at least seven days. School or light work is resumed on the eighth day.

2.—To stimulate daily bowel movement, 2 to 4 teaspoons of Phospo-Soda may be taken in water or an enema given.

3.—An adult with dry throat or bad breath may gargle four or five times daily, using ¼ teaspoon of table salt in a glass of lukewarm water.

4.—Muscle spasm is prevented by commencing to swallow immediately after operation.

5.—Frequent small meals are preferable; all food and drink should be cold or lukewarm.

First day — Fluids may consist of abundant water, milk, ginger ale, broth, ice cream, or sherbert, eggnog, prune juice, or cold sweetened orange or grapefruit juice.

Second day—Food is begun but only soft cooked cereal, custard, madshed potato, pureed vegetables, soft boiled or poached eggs, gelatin desserts and the like are given. Children must take plenty of fluid but are not forced to eat. Painful spasm is relieved by chewing between meals.

Third day — Cooked meat is allowed if finely cut and well-chewed.

Next four days — Ordinary diet is restored, omitting dry toast and crackers. Alcoholic beverages are withheld for two weeks and also withheld are hot or highly seasoned food and drink. Moderate pain in the ears with temperature up to 100 degrees F. may be relieved by hot water bottle or heating pad, but if severe pain or high temperature occurs, the physician must be called.

If bleeding occurs, a mixture of one part hydrogen peroxide and three parts cool water is gargled while sitting up; ice may be sucked. If bleeding continues, a doctor is called or the patient is taken to the hospital in a car without delay.

Sailor Beware

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The three-way battle for authority to develop hydroelectric power resources of the Niagara River, below Niagara Falls, is apparently going to be decided by the U. S. Senate on the basis of how much "socialism" there is in it.

This is the eastern equivalent to the Hell's Canyon fight in the west. How it is settled will play a big part in determining the Eisenhower Administration's electric power policy.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey came to Washington to deny that there was any "socialism" in his proposal to have the New York State Power Authority develop and market the Niagara power.

But New York private power companies have been waging a heavy public relations campaign to argue that there was no difference between federal socialism and state socialism, and that Governor Dewey's proposal was state socialism.

The Committee for Constitutional Government, with headquarters in New York, has also been conducting a heavy mail barrage on Washington to convince Congress that Governor Dewey's program is socialism. Included in this organization's exhibits are leaflets headed, "Denationalize Electric Power," by Prof. O. Glenn Saxon of Yale; and "Federal Socialization of Electric Power," by ex-President Herbert Hoover.

Governor Dewey Declares

Curiously enough, in his statement before the Senate Public Works Committee, Governor Dewey declared that before he could be convicted of socialism, it would be necessary to convict Theodore Roosevelt, Charles Evans Hughes and Herbert Hoover, sponsor of the Hoover Dam.

Thus an apparent effort was being made to use ex-President Hoover as a witness on both sides of the argument. But Governor Dewey insisted that the argument of socialism was dead.

"Suppose someone called it 'creeping socialism?' " Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee asked. After the laughter died down, Governor Dewey replied that if it was creeping socialism, it did its creeping 30 years ago and was now old.

"I find that I am now being accused of being a radical," said Governor Dewey, "whereas before, I was always called a conservative. But I still stand exactly where I have always stood."

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon broke in here to observe wryly, "That's what always happens when you adopt a liberal idea," and everybody laughed again.

All three of the congressional proposals on Niagara power development start out by declaring an intent to preserve the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls. What the fight is about is whether this $400 million, two billion kilowatts of electric energy shall be controlled by the federal government, the state of New York, or five private power companies.

House Has Made Choice

The House of Representatives has already made its choice—in favor of the private power companies. By a vote of 262 to 120, on July 9, the House passed the Dondero-Miller bill, directing the Federal Power Commission to issue licenses to the private companies.

In so doing, the House passed up Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr's. bill to authorize the Army Corps of Engineers to do the work, and Rep. Frank J. Becker's proposal to let the New York State Power Authority do the job.

So now the project is before the Senate. Here Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York supports federal government development. Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana supports the House-passed Miller-Dondero bill for private enterprise development. And Sen. Irving M. Ives of New York supports his state's Power Authority plans.

The fact that the Congress itself is making this decision, instead of the Federal Power Commission which was created by Congress in 1920 to decide these things, is due to a legislative fluke.

FPC, early in July, announced it would issue a license to New York Power Authority to develop the St. Lawrence power projects. But in 1950, when the U. S. Senate ratified the treaty with Canada on joint St. Lawrence development, a rider was attached. It specified that "no project for the development of such waters shall be undertaken until it can be specifically authorized by Act of Congress." That cut FPC right out of the picture.

If the Senate now passes the House-passed Dondero-Miller bill giving the license for Niagara development to the five companies, Governor Dewey has indicated he will challenge the constitutionality of the act.

Malenkov Statement Considered Good News for Americans—No H-Bomb Use Foreseen

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 10—It's good news for America—that Malenkov says Soviet Russia has the hydrogen bomb. He now knows its destructiveness.

It's good news because a weapon of such devastating power probably will never be used against the peoples of either Soviet Russia or the United States—the deterrent influence will increase as knowledge of its danger grows.

The United States would never want to use the H-bomb unless attacked and the government of Soviet Russia would never dare to use it. For it could mean a retaliation that would destroy the Russian people.

It's good news also because America not only has a tremendous lead in the production of atomic weapons but now has an incentive for her industrial machine to maintain that lead indefinitely.

It is of secondary importance whether Soviet Russia actually has developed one hydrogen bomb or has reached the point of knowing how to manufacture many more. What is important is that Malenkov saw fit to make a public announcement saying that the United States has "not for a long time" enjoyed a monopoly in the production of either the A-bomb or the H-bomb.

Why did the Communist leader say so at this time? Examination of the pertinent passages of his speech reveals clearly that he was trying to give the lie to those who construed the recent Soviet peace offensive as due to internal weakness. The more he developed his theme, however, the more he revealed that his basic reason is a fear of internal forces hostile to him.

The entire address was significant of the "defense mechanism" which operates in Soviet psychology today. The world must be assured, it seems, that the Communists won the Korean war, that the language of force which is so often referred to by American spokesmen will not frighten Soviet Russia, and that traitors like Beria are not going to make any headway in the Kremlin.

The more these efforts to convey an impression of strength in top leadership are studied, the more they seem to betray deep-seated fears and insecurity.

American policy, of course, has to be based only on safe assumptions—not on wishful thinking. The long-range effect of the Malenkov announcement will be to step up American production of atomic weapons and to make sure that the air power necessary to carry the bombs to their destination—if war does break out—will be available instantly, no matter what the sacrifice now.

Another factor that will loom large from now on is overseas bases. Malenkov's statement may frighten some European countries into policies of "neutralism" as between America and Soviet Russia. They may be so fearful of an H-bomb or so misled by Communist propaganda as to seek to restrain American air forces from using overseas bases or accumulating bombs there. Already the British government is relying on an assurance formally given when Mr. Truman was president that no A-bombs will ever be started from bases in England toward an enemy without a full-fledged consultation in advance of such action. This could mean delay and, in an atomic war, could mean the difference between survival or disaster.

The safest way for America to proceed is to acquire or lease as many overseas bases on land as possible in different parts of the world, and to have also a sufficient number of floating bases in the form of huge aircraft carriers and small carriers stationed in waters near the European theatre of possible war so the United States will not be beholden to any countries which at some future time might succumb to Communist infiltration.

Out of the whole atomic scare may come a much more important result —a chance for an era of real peace instead of war. This will not ensue just because of a fear of the terrible consequences of atomic warfare as such. Fear of death by an artillery shell or a bomb has not prevented wars in the past. Germ warfare, as developed today, can be far more devastating than an H-bomb. Chemical gas warfare was tried by both sides in World War I but abandoned in World War II as mutually too destructive to armies even though scientists had increased its deadliness by many times.

The biggest single influence that may come out of the atomic arms race is the growing knowledge by all peoples that they alone must decide their own fate. The H-bomb isn't as important as the hand that decides to throw it. Dictatorships may become so dangerous that peoples will not take a chance by tolerating them.

The disintegration of the Communist dictatorship has already begun. If American spokesmen and policy-makers will seize the opportunity to tell the people of the Soviet Union and the satellite states how they can avoid the hazard of war by ridding themselves of a warmongering dictatorship which is at the moment quaking in its boots, progress will be begun toward a real peace in the world.

Food could be a mightier force for peace than the H-bomb. East Germany has revealed that hungry people are not afraid to defy dictatorships. There is progress toward sanity in the world—toward a realization some day soon of the simple fact that 13 men in Moscow's Politburo cannot always control 200,000,000 peace-loving people.

To Get 160 Millionth

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—America gets its 160 millionth person some time about 10 a. m. today (EST)—almost 9 million above the official census figure of three years ago. That's the reckoning of a 10-foot high machine ticking away in the Commerce Department lobby. Census officials arranged a special ceremony to mark the event there. The machine records a net gain of one person every 12 seconds. It figures on a birth every 8 seconds and a death every 21 seconds. It also takes into account the number of persons entering and leaving the country.

Star Shower Due Tonight

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A shower of shooting stars—as many as 40 or 50 in an hour—may be seen tonight through Friday night, the American museum-Hayden Planetarium says. The Planetarium adds that the best time for watching the shower of meteors is after midnight and the best places are away from the bright lights of cities. The stellar show is the annual Perseid meteor shower, so called because the meteors seem to diverge from the constellation of Perseus in the northern sky.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Aug. 9—Regardless of the partisan division of strength in the Senate, the Republicans of the strictly constitutional persuasion are only about one-third of the membership. It is impossible, of course, to draw a firm straight line, separating the deviationists, as the Communist would call such erratics, from the kiver-to-kiver Republicans. For example, even Joe McCarthy, who is damned as an "isolationist" and "reactionary," is not an unconditional hard-core man. On foreign policy and foreign expenditures, he runs with President Eisenhower and thus with his worst enemy, Lehman, of New York. Yet, as a fighting anti-Red and a political heavyweight who has warned Eisenhower not to push him around, he is an acceptable Republican.

On the eastern seaboard, including New England, most of the ostensible Republicans must be written off or heavily discounted. Margaret Smith, of Maine, would be an acceptable Democrat. She would not have to drop any present principle or adopt any new one. Ives, of New York, and Saltonstall, of Massachusetts, are about the same. The two Connecticut plebes, Prescott Bush and William Purtell, give no sign of meeting the minimum general requirements of hard-core men. They probably should be written off. John Williams, of Delaware, and John Bricker, of Ohio, are, if not the two best, then certainly two of the best unconditional Republicans. The definition of this type of Republican is one who is pro-American in all things, including American sovereignty, foreign policy and foreign spending, economy in government, the United Nations, taxation and the ramification of the federal government in the private lives of the citizens through agencies and laws which were unthinkable before the brain-washing process of the New Deal began in 1933.

Many serious impairments of the constitutional rights of the people are carried on through the unions. These include denial of due process through the mock-trials of union kangaroo courts, denial of the right to work, and confiscation of money by fines and assessments. Such invasions of the personal life of the citizen are the policy and the actual acts of the federal government. The unions could not do these things except by governmental desire.

A canvass of these Republicans would require a dull analysis of the conduct of each in minute instances. Some are flabby.

Dirksen, of Illinois, who had momentary illusions of grandeur at the 1952 convention and even aroused some hopes in other true Republicans, is a weak one. On foreign policy and expenditures, he threw in with "my President," accepting not Ike's leadership, but the ill-disguised dictation of a political force of eastern manipulators. Dirksen knows that the President gets his policies in these matters from the same operators who engineered his nomination in Chicago. Dirksen is not as far gone as Smith, Saltonstall and Ives, but he is vacillating.

Who are the reliables, then? I would include McCarthy because he has developed into a power opposed to the worst of Ike's backing. That backing includes, strangely enough, Lehman, the New York Democrat, who has been appeased by Ike at every turn on the admission of unqualified and highly questionable European refugees and on foreign relations. It is ironic and baffling that a president who is nominally Republican should run with a senator who is so radically Democratic and repudiate the most authentic Republicans. But there you are. These strange facts cannot be simplified nor shrugged off. They mean that a new political party is coming into being whose main purposes, when they are finally put into a charter, will be intense patriotism, the preservation of the republic as opposed to the Socialist authority inherent in the New Deal and the unions, and the expulsion of the federal government from the affairs of the states and of the people.

In one phase there is a seeming inconsistency which is clarified in a few words. Senator Taft and other hard-core men accepted "federal aid" to clear slums and provide homes for our own displaced persons. How can that position be reconciled to the hard-core's opposition to federal subsidies to the states? The answer is simple. The federal government has hogged so much revenue that the states have none left to finance such works under their own sovereignty. These emergencies can't wait until the federal government has been driven out of these taxing jurisdictions. Meanwhile, any state which denies itself "federal money" for such reasons is robbing itself of its own comeback money.

The hard-core Republicans include Bridges, of New Hampshire; Malone, of Nevada; Schoeppel, of Kansas; Young, of North Dakota; Dworshak and Welker, of Idaho; Ferguson, of Michigan; Capehart and Jenner, of Indiana; Goldwater, of Arizona; Butler, of Maryland; Bennett, of Utah; and Martin, of Pennsylvania. There are others with string-halt and the Botts who can run when excited.

Police Seek Escapee From Cape May Jail

Cape May Court House, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP)—Police hunted today for a convict who broke out of the Cape May county jail just a day after he was made a trusty.

Sheriff Norman Taylor said the prisoner, John C. Campbell, 53, of Bayside, N. Y., escaped last night by walking out a back door. Campbell was made a trusty Saturday after serving six months on a charge of passing two bad checks in Sea Isle city.

A state police road block was set up after the escape. Cars were stopped and checked.

Campbell walked out a back door while the prison warden was punching a clock in the next room, an hourly duty, Taylor said.

He is wanted in Philadelphia and Los Angeles on charges of passing bad checks, and in Chicago in connection with a confidence game, the sheriff added.

Police said Salisbury, Rauss' passenger, was dressed in feminine clothing. Firemen who removed the body at first identified the victim as a woman.

Americans Turned

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirsted, said about the 30:

"They keep quiet here. They speak to you like nothing ever happened. The majority of them are right here in Inchon, waiting for the ship (home).

"I think something should be done to them. A lot of guys have suffered on account of them. They seem happy now. Nothing has been said to them and nothing has been done to them."

Asked if army investigators knew about the men, Scales answered: "I hope they do."

He said if enough "reactionaries" from his company arrive in time to catch the ship "it wouldn't be safe for them (the 30) to go back...."

Scales said he got his information because he worked in the camp kitchen near camp headquarters where the "progressives" hung out.

Cpl. Harold Wilson, 32, of Mobile, Ala., said one prisoner—considered the "No. 1 progressive" in camp 5—had said he would "kill his own mother and father if they interfered with him being a Communist and would never even spit on an American dollar again."

Three other Americans who returned Monday said the Reds have returned "No. 1 progressives" from camp 5.

They were among 125 Americans who streamed into Freedom Village with smiles on their faces but grim words on their lips. This was the biggest group of Americans sent back on one day.

They said the "No. 1 progressives" from their camp were handed over at Panmunjom in the first few days of Operation Big Switch.

The prisoners labeled men who swallowed the Red line "progressives." Some have elected to stay behind, prisoners have said, either converted to the Communist philosophy or fearful of what their fellow inmates might do once the Red protection was gone.

The three liberated men, all from Iowa, said all the "progressives" have been returned from Camp 5 near the Yalu river at Pyoktong.

"The rest of the boys are okay," said Cpl. Dale L. Reeder of Waukon. "They (the 'progressives') were in the first groups liberated."

His words were supported by Sgt. Gordon M. Schimtz of Le Mars and Sgt. Kenneth Darrow of Charles City.

Most of the Americans who returned in the sixth day of "Operation Big Switch" climbed down from their ambulances light-hearted warehouse processing center they told ugly stories about their long months in captivity.

They told of hunger and ceaseless indoctrination, death and constant racial propaganda, and their disgust for the "progressives."

All the returned prisoners from Pyoktong agreed there were some "progressives" there but estimates of numbers varied widely.

Cpl. Carl J. Raup of Franklin, Pa., said that between Feb. 1 and Aug. 1, 1951, 4,400 prisoners died at the Pyoktong camp.

"Later," Raup said, "the Communists tried to tell us that they lived as hard as we did. I was a cook and I know that wasn't true. They ate white rice and dog meat and we ate slop like cracked corn.

"I've seen the time I sure would have liked a piece of dog meat," he said.

Raup said he felt seven Americans from Camp 5 were not coming back.

He said bitterly that if he ever meets any of the seven "I'd beat the hell out of him if he wasn't a better man than me and if he was I'd use a chair."

Raup said one of the seven told him that he wanted to go home, but about a week ago the prisoner was taken off in another direction. The corporal said two more men were taken with the first man on a one-way trip to China.

Many released prisoners told of being lectured on allegations of American germ warfare by Alan Winnington, Communist correspondent for the London Daily Worker, who has been in North Korea for more than two years.

They said Winnington quoted "confessions" from Americans that they had participated in germ warfare.

Raup said many men, including himself, were forced to sign petitions for the Communists.

"They worked on me all one night," Raup said, "from 7 o'clock in the evening until the next day, trying to make me sign one of their petitions for peace. At 3 o'clock and healthy, but inside the a. m., they told me they were going to put me in solitary confinement if I didn't sign and I still refused.

"At 6 a. m., one of the guards pulled out a revolver and waved it in my face and said, 'You had better sign.' I signed."

Sgt. Benjamin Conley of Columbus, Ohio, showed allied newsmen a photograph of the infamous Camp 5 at Pyoktong—a scenic general view taken from a hill top.

"That looks mighty peaceful," he said, "but within this, 2,400 men, United Nations prisoners, lie buried."

Two Drivers Are Held on Charges

Two drivers were arrested Sunday and early today on three traffic charges each.

John H. Petersen, 16, of Woodstock, was arrested at 1:45 a. m. today by Officers John Crespino and Joseph Kivlan on Susan near Summer street on charges of speeding, reckless driving and for driving as an unlicensed operator.

Special City Judge Harry Gold today gave the defendant the choice of spending five days in jail on each charge or paying $75 in fines. The fines, $15 on the speeding charge, $50 for the reckless driving count, and $10 for the other, were paid. Police said Petersen holds a junior operator's license. The car he drove was awarded recently at the Woodstock Library Fair.

Charles F. DiRienzo, 18, of 1 Becket street, was arrested by Officers Sheldon O'Rourke and Hydrect Armstrong on a charge of speeding and two counts of alleged violation of red lights. He forfeited $35 through failure to appear in city court this morning.

Draft Calls

manpower experts to look into whether UMT was feasible and desirable. In 1952, a UMT program was rejected by Congress.

However, if the size of the armed forces continues at 3,300,000 after next July 1, the draft calls will inevitably go up to about 45,000 a month because of increased releases from active duty.

And there will be a shorter supply of young men who can be called into service. The supply has been dwindling not only because of heavy demands made during the Korean War, but because during the depression of the 1930's the number of babies born—today's youth—was declining.

About the only solution for this shortage would be to change draft policies and lower the physical and mental standards for draft and enlistment. This would mean many men not now eligible for service could be used.

Might Affect Fathers

Selective Service is eyeing the possibility of making now-deferred fathers eligible for the draft. This would add about 1,135,000 men to the eligibles. Those who became fathers after Aug. 25, 1953 will be subject to the draft unless deferred for other reasons.

By a change in the draft mental and physical requirements, Selective Service could have another look at the 1½ million draft-age young men who are now 4-F.

The number of men in the other draft-deferred categories — occupational, student, alien etc.—is small, and the deferments usually temporary.

Of course, a change in the age limit for drafting or lengthening of the required draft service might be made. But these are drastic measures that would have to be initiated by Congress and would be a last resort.

There will be information on pasture irrigation, winter wheat situation, a chance to see excellent alfalfa fields and new seedings.

Yanks Leave

British for 50 South Koreans. Whether this was merely a mixup in the Red schedule or had some deeper significance remained to be seen.

There was speculation the Reds made the sudden switch to avoid delivering the ghastly ROK litter cases before the eyes of India's foreign minister, R. K. Nehru.

Nehru, a member of the Neutral Nations Advisory Commission which will oversee prisoners who refuse repatriation, reached Panmunjom in time to witness the third hourly delivery of prisoners. This was the exchange group that was switched by the Reds.

100 Americans Tuesday

Tuesday's group, the Reds announced, all will be in good health. It will be made up of 100 Americans, 25 British, 25 Turks and 250 South Koreans.

The total will raise the number of UN soldiers returned in seven days to 2,774, including 623 of 3,313 Americans the Reds said they held. The Communists have said they will return 12,763 prisoners all told.

There were fewer incidents in the switch Monday. Sunday nearly 475 Red nurses, wives and camp followers were repatriated in scenes of bitter violence.

Monday the only trouble came from a handful of North Korean prisoners who jumped off their northbound trucks here and appeared ready to start a fight.

They claimed some South Koreans had thrown stones at their truck. Military police and other Red prisoners restrained them with angry shouts. There was no further trouble.

Commission to Meet

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—A Soviet-Iranian commission to "strengthen existing friendly relations" between Russia and her oil-rich southern neighbor soon will meet in Tehran, Radio Moscow said today. The broadcast announcing an agreement to set up the joint group did not say when it would convene.

3. More liberal provisions for dependents. These include letting children under 18 make more than $600 a year and still be counted as dependents, plus broadening the definitions to include more people, such as foster children. No estimates of revenue loss are available.

4. Reduced taxation of corporation dividends. A repeated complaint is that corporation profits are taxed once as corporation income, then taxed again under individual income rates paid by stockholders. One proposal, to exempt up to $200 in dividend income, would cost 200 to 250 million annually.

5. Bigger allowances for depreciation of plants and equipment. The cost could run to several billion.

6. Reduced taxes on capital gains. One proposal, to cut the capital gains tax rate from 26 per cent to 13 per cent, would cost about a half-billion.

Walter John Ellsworth, 18, of 496 Washington avenue was arrested Saturday night by Officers Francis Loeffler and Joseph Kivlin on a charge of being absent without leave from the U. S. Marine Corps. The Mature Parent

This Boy's Refusal to Work May Be Anger at Parents

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Though Art is 17, husky and capable, he won't take a summer job. Instead of working, he prefers to loll about the house all day until his friends get home at night from their vacation jobs and are ready for fun.

"His father is so disgusted with Art that he's cut out the boy's allowance," his mother writes. "This is hard on the boy as we have more than enough of this world's goods. Without a cent in his wallet, he's embarrassed among his friends who are also the children of well-to-do parents. . . ."

What's Art mad about? Can't his parents find out? Or could they be so busy being disgusted with him that it hasn't occurred to them that he may be disgusted with them?

When, at 4 years old, Art dragged on our hand, forcing us to pull him down the street, he was mad at us. He refused to go down the street on his own steam, not because he didn't want to, but because he wished to frustrate the will of a person he was mad at.

When at 17, he drags around the house all day, forcing us to accept his idleness against our will, he is also mad at us. He refuses to go to work, not because he doesn't want to work but because he wishes to frustrate the will of the person who wants him to go to work.

In such a situation, it is not intelligent to make Art madder at us by cutting out his allowance. His anger at us in our problem. If we want to solve it, we'd better not add to it, but get busy and find out why he's mad.

Children of parents who are plentifully supplied with this world's goods often balk at the idea of earning any money of their own if we have offended or hurt them. They find it outrageous that they should have to exert themselves to earn money when we have more than enough to take care of their needs and wants.

This is not hard to understand. Unlike your lucky child and mine, Art is not compelled to face the hard fact of a limited family income.

Without any real financial limitation to accept and deal with, he can waste time juggling emotions. He can spend the whole summer torn between his desire for a jalopy and his resentful need to frustrate us by making us pay for it with money he knows we have.

Art can remain immobilized for years if we don't get on to this conflict. If we want him to work, we'd better first find out where, when and how we offended him.

Police Seek Escapee From Cape May Jail

Cape May Court House, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP)—Police hunted today for a convict who broke out of the Cape May county jail just a day after he was made a trusty.

Sheriff Norman Taylor said the prisoner, John C. Campbell, 53, of Bayside, N. Y., escaped last night by walking out a back door. Campbell was made a trusty Saturday after serving six months on a charge of passing two bad checks in Sea Isle city.

A state police road block was set up after the escape. Cars were stopped and checked.

Campbell walked out a back door while the prison warden was punching a clock in the next room, an hourly duty, Taylor said.

He is wanted in Philadelphia and Los Angeles on charges of passing bad checks, and in Chicago in connection with a confidence game, the sheriff added.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirsted, said about the 30:

"They keep quiet here. They speak to you like nothing ever happened. The majority of them are right here in Inchon, waiting for the ship (home).

"I think something should be done to them. A lot of guys have suffered on account of them. They seem happy now. Nothing has been said to them and nothing has been done to them."

Asked if army investigators knew about the men, Scales answered: "I hope they do."

He said if enough "reactionaries" from his company arrive in time to catch the ship "it wouldn't be safe for them (the 30) to go back...."

Scales said he got his information because he worked in the camp kitchen near camp headquarters where the "progressives" hung out.

Tuesday's group, the Reds announced, all will be in good health. It will be made up of 100 Americans, 25 British, 25 Turks and 250 South Koreans.

The total will raise the number of UN soldiers returned in seven days to 2,774, including 623 of 3,313 Americans the Reds said they held. The Communists have said they will return 12,763 prisoners all told.

There were fewer incidents in the switch Monday. Sunday nearly 475 Red nurses, wives and camp followers were repatriated in scenes of bitter violence.

Monday the only trouble came from a handful of North Korean prisoners who jumped off their northbound trucks here and appeared ready to start a fight.

They claimed some South Koreans had thrown stones at their truck. Military police and other Red prisoners restrained them with angry shouts. There was no further trouble.

The league, which was organized 27 years ago in Syracuse with Commissioner Corsi as one of its founders, is mainly comprised of professional and business men of Italian-American extraction.

Those attending the meeting were Thomas Saccoman, local attorney; Joseph Bianco of Rosendale; Philip Gatti of Saugerties; Anthony De Lisio of Woodstock; Albert Di Somma of Katsbaan, governor of the local chapter of the League; Louis P. cal expenses running above 5 per cent of income. If that limitation were removed, the cost would be close to a billion dollars.

3. More liberal provisions for dependents. These include letting children under 18 make more than $600 a year and still be counted as dependents, plus broadening the definitions to include more people, such as foster children. No estimates of revenue loss are available.

4. Reduced taxation of corporation dividends. A repeated complaint is that corporation profits are taxed once as corporation income, then taxed again under individual income rates paid by stockholders. One proposal, to exempt up to $200 in dividend income, would cost 200 to 250 million annually.

5. Bigger allowances for depreciation of plants and equipment. The cost could run to several billion.

6. Reduced taxes on capital gains. One proposal, to cut the capital gains tax rate from 26 per cent to 13 per cent, would cost about a half-billion.

The Mature Parent

This Boy's Refusal to Work May Be Anger at Parents

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Though Art is 17, husky and capable, he won't take a summer job. Instead of working, he prefers to loll about the house all day until his friends get home at night from their vacation jobs and are ready for fun.

"His father is so disgusted with Art that he's cut out the boy's allowance," his mother writes. "This is hard on the boy as we have more than enough of this world's goods. Without a cent in his wallet, he's embarrassed among his friends who are also the children of well-to-do parents. . . ."

What's Art mad about? Can't his parents find out? Or could they be so busy being disgusted with him that it hasn't occurred to them that he may be disgusted with them?

When, at 4 years old, Art dragged on our hand, forcing us to pull him down the street, he was mad at us. He refused to go down the street on his own steam, not because he didn't want to, but because he wished to frustrate the will of a person he was mad at.

When at 17, he drags around the house all day, forcing us to accept his idleness against our will, he is also mad at us. He refuses to go to work, not because he doesn't want to work but because he wishes to frustrate the will of the person who wants him to go to work.

In such a situation, it is not intelligent to make Art madder at us by cutting out his allowance. His anger at us in our problem. If we want to solve it, we'd better not add to it, but get busy and find out why he's mad.

Children of parents who are plentifully supplied with this world's goods often balk at the idea of earning any money of their own if we have offended or hurt them. They find it outrageous that they should have to exert themselves to earn money when we have more than enough to take care of their needs and wants.

This is not hard to understand. Unlike your lucky child and mine, Art is not compelled to face the hard fact of a limited family income.

Without any real financial limitation to accept and deal with, he can waste time juggling emotions. He can spend the whole summer torn between his desire for a jalopy and his resentful need to frustrate us by making us pay for it with money he knows we have.

Art can remain immobilized for years if we don't get on to this conflict. If we want him to work, we'd better first find out where, when and how we offended him.

Theatre Is Robbed

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A lone holdup man today robbed the 86th street RKO Theatre at Lexington avenue, of more than $6,000 after forcing the manager to open the safe. Police believe he was the same man who held up the theatre last March and escaped with $3,600. Today's holdup occurred half an hour before the noon opening of the theatre. Irving Gold, the manager, was en route to the office when the robber produced a pistol and told Gold to open the safe "or I'll blow your head off."

Death Listed Erroneously

Milwaukee, Aug. 10 (AP)—Johnny Paychek, former boxer who challenged Joe Louis for the heavyweight title in 1940, was erroneously listed as dead today, until he learned of the story in Chicago. Paychek, currently a gymnasium employe, was wrongly identified as Anton Pasholk, 41, who died Sunday of a heart attack. The county medical examiner's office said Pasholk had been identified as Paychek by papers found on the body by a son, Frank Pasholk, Elgin, Ill.

Cotton Crop Estimated

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Agriculture Department, in its first forecast of the year, reported a prospective cotton crop of 14,605,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. Officials have said a crop of 12 million or more bales would require Secretary Benson to invoke rigid controls on production next year to prevent a burdensome surplus. Benson has until Oct. 15 to make a decision.

Will Aid Republicans

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Eisenhower farm policies will be a boon to the Republicans in next year's congressional elections, says Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse. Morse told CBS interviewers yesterday the administration is making an extensive study on the local level of what kind of program farmers want. He said he expects Congress to weigh the proposed program carefully, but he declined to say what, if any changes, would be suggested. "Over all, I think our program will offer much strength in the elections," he said.

'Developments' Reported

Quebec, Aug. 10 (AP)—Solicitor General Antoine Rivard said today there had been "important and serious developments" in the investigation of the slaying of three Pennsylvania bear hunters in Gaspe Peninsula. But the solicitor general cancelled plans for a news conference amid growing unofficial reports that the case had been solved. "The ends of justice would be obstructed if details on current police work were revealed," he explained. Police activity suddenly was stepped up and a tight lid clamped on information at provincial police headquarters.

Troops Are Skeptical

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Battle-hardened troops arriving today from Korea were skeptical that the truce will produce a real peace. News of the truce signing reached the marine corps while en route here from Inchon. Ship's officers said the young veterans put on no celebrations. "The truce will be a good thing if they stick to it," Sgt. Kenneth Watts, 22, of Iselin, N. J., said. "I'm happy for the fellows still there."

23 Trotters Entered

Goshen, Aug. 10 (AP)—A record field of 23 three-year-old trotters, headed by the favored Newport Star, was entered today for Wednesday's Hambletonian, the harness racing classic, at Good Time Park. It cost $1,000 to enter the trotting "Kentucky Derby" and with the bumper entry the purse will amount to a record $115,000. The winner gets 55 per cent of the purse.

Expects Red Revolution

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Former Ambassador George Kennan said today he is sure revolution eventually will "take place in the Soviet orbit." He cautioned, however, against official United States interference in the internal troubles of the Communists lest this tend to stimulate Red unity.

Quake Hits Island

Athens, Greece, Aug. 10 (AP)—Ithaca, Ulysses' island home off the west coast of Greece, has been hit by an earthquake. Reports reaching here today said two people were killed, 20 injured and 200 houses collapsed in the tremor. The government rushed aid to the island.

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Crompton Parkinson, Ltd., a British electrical firm, announced today a 500,000 pound ($1,400,000) contract to supply about 125 miles of power cable to the Soviet Union. It gave no details of the deal.

Two Are Victims

New Delhi, India, Aug. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today that two Indians died in the Korean fighting—one from shrapnel and one from illness. Eighteen were injured. The Indians were members of the ambulance unit which was India's only contribution to the United Nations forces in Korea. Nehru said the unit had cost his government 430,000 rupees ($90,300) so far.

Both Did All Right

Oneida, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mayor Victor P. Tarry got a $1 ticket for parking overtime while he was inspecting a city construction job—but he'll find little sympathy in court. City Judge William C. Olcott's automobile, parked a short distance away, also was tagged.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city; branch office, 41 John street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—An irregular movement of prices today left the stock market steady. Changes of an eighth either way were much in evidence and seldom did they get into the major fractions.

Railroads held steady along with the utilities, steels, motors, oils, and aircraft.

Radio-television issues headed higher as did most motion pictures. Coppers and rubbers were unchanged to lower.

Weakness in commodities imparted a note of uncertainty to stock market. The decline, however, was not extensive enough to bring about sympathetic liquidation in stocks.

Higher stocks included Texas Co., Paramount Pictures, American Telephone, du Pont, General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, United Aircraft, and Radio Corp.

Lower were Southern Pacific, Anaconda Copper, International Nickel, American Cyanamid, American Can, Chrysler, and International Harvester.

Employers Asked Opinions of Law

A limited number of employers in the Kingston area are being asked for their opinions on the state Unemployment Insurance Law and whether they think it should be amended further.

A survey questionnaire has been sent out by the State Legislative Affairs Committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce to determine if additional amendments would be "in the best interests of industrial expansion and increased employment," the Chamber announced today.

Data gathered as a result of the survey will be tabulated and combined with similar information from other cities.

Chairman of the local chamber's Legislative Affairs Committee is Attorney Hugh Elwyn, who requests that those receiving questionnaires fill them out and return them as soon as possible.

The Hughes-Brees amendments to the law, setting up reduced rates for firms who maintain stable employment, removed an important cost handicap which New York firms formerly suffered in competition with out-of-state rivals, Harold Keller, state commerce commissioner, has pointed out.

"It is cheering to know that a great impediment to attracting new industry to the state has now been removed," Keller said in a statement issued following passage of the amendments. "It is significant also that the 2,445 firms which will pay the lowest rate of 0.7 per cent are all in the category of small business," he said. He also pointed out that the state Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund has reached the highest point in its history, approximately $1,200,000,000.

The present survey seeks to obtain specific data on the influence of present provisions on certain qualifications and insurance payments.

About 90 per cent of the proved reserves of natural gas in the United States are in five states—Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Governor Calls For Civil Defense To Be Continued

The Civil Defense effort in New York state, which he termed "the best in the nation for the last five years," must not be permitted to relax because of the military truce in Korea, Governor Thomas E. Dewey said in a statement to Civil Defense directors and released here today by Col. Allan L. Hanstein, Ulster county director.

"We have no assurance that the 'cease fire' order means real peace. This is no time to let down our home-front defense efforts," the governor said.

New York state contains approximately 22 percent of the nation's industrial targets, and one tenth of the country's population.

Gov. Dewey said he was "proud of the work and unselfish patriotism that the people of this state have shown ever since our Civil Defense program was launched." More than 900,000 citizens have become CD workers, he said.

"I urge them, and all others, to continue their vigilant attitude of preparedness and training without letup. . . . What we do today and tomorow may mean our way of life in the years ahead, for ourselves and our children," he said.

Theatre Is Robbed

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A lone holdup man today robbed the 86th street RKO Theatre, at Lexington avenue, of more than $6,000 after forcing the manager to open the safe. Police believe he was the same man who held up the theatre last March and escaped with $3,600. Today's holdup occurred half an hour before the noon opening of the theatre. Irving Gold, the manager, was en route to the office when the robber produced a pistol and told Gold to open the safe "or I'll blow your head off."

Death Listed Erroneously

Milwaukee, Aug. 10 (AP)—Johnny Paychek, former boxer who challenged Joe Louis for the heavyweight title in 1940, was erroneously listed as dead today, until he learned of the story in Chicago. Paychek, currently a gymnasium employe, was wrongly identified as Anton Pasholk, 41, who died Sunday of a heart attack. The county medical examiner's office said Pasholk had been identified as Paychek by papers found on the body by a son, Frank Pasholk, Elgin, Ill.

Cotton Crop Estimated

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Agriculture Department, in its first forecast of the year, reported a prospective cotton crop of 14,605,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. Officials have said a crop of 12 million or more bales would require Secretary Benson to invoke rigid controls on production next year to prevent a burdensome surplus. Benson has until Oct. 15 to make a decision.

Will Aid Republicans

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Eisenhower farm policies will be a boon to the Republicans in next year's congressional elections, says Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse. Morse told CBS interviewers yesterday the administration is making an extensive study on the local level of what kind of program farmers want. He said he expects Congress to weigh the proposed program carefully, but he declined to say what, if any changes, would be suggested. "Over all, I think our program will offer much strength in the elections," he said.

'Developments' Reported

Quebec, Aug. 10 (AP)—Solicitor General Antoine Rivard said today there had been "important and serious developments" in the investigation of the slaying of three Pennsylvania bear hunters in Gaspe Peninsula. But the solicitor general cancelled plans for a news conference amid growing unofficial reports that the case had been solved. "The ends of justice would be obstructed if details on current police work were revealed," he explained. Police activity suddenly was stepped up and a tight lid clamped on information at provincial police headquarters.

Troops Are Skeptical

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Battle-hardened troops arriving today from Korea were skeptical that the truce will produce a real peace. News of the truce signing reached the marine corps while en route here from Inchon. Ship's officers said the young veterans put on no celebrations. "The truce will be a good thing if they stick to it," Sgt. Kenneth Watts, 22, of Iselin, N. J., said. "I'm happy for the fellows still there."

23 Trotters Entered

Goshen, Aug. 10 (AP)—A record field of 23 three-year-old trotters, headed by the favored Newport Star, was entered today for Wednesday's Hambletonian, the harness racing classic, at Good Time Park. It cost $1,000 to enter the trotting "Kentucky Derby" and with the bumper entry the purse will amount to a record $115,000. The winner gets 55 per cent of the purse.

Expects Red Revolution

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Former Ambassador George Kennan said today he is sure revolution eventually will "take place in the Soviet orbit." He cautioned, however, against official United States interference in the internal troubles of the Communists lest this tend to stimulate Red unity.

Quake Hits Island

Athens, Greece, Aug. 10 (AP)—Ithaca, Ulysses' island home off the west coast of Greece, has been hit by an earthquake. Reports reaching here today said two people were killed, 20 injured and 200 houses collapsed in the tremor. The government rushed aid to the island.

Will Sell Cable

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Crompton Parkinson, Ltd., a British electrical firm, announced today a 500,000 pound ($1,400,000) contract to supply about 125 miles of power cable to the Soviet Union. It gave no details of the deal.

Two Are Victims

New Delhi, India, Aug. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today that two Indians died in the Korean fighting—one from shrapnel and one from illness. Eighteen were injured. The Indians were members of the ambulance unit which was India's only contribution to the United Nations forces in Korea. Nehru said the unit had cost his government 430,000 rupees ($90,300) so far.

Both Did All Right

Oneida, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mayor Victor P. Tarry got a $1 ticket for parking overtime while he was inspecting a city construction job—but he'll find little sympathy in court. City Judge William C. Olcott's automobile, parked a short distance away, also was tagged.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—An irregular movement of prices today left the stock market steady. Changes of an eighth either way were much in evidence and seldom did they get into the major fractions.

Railroads held steady along with the utilities, steels, motors, oils, and aircraft.

Radio-television issues headed higher as did most motion pictures. Coppers and rubbers were unchanged to lower.

Weakness in commodities imparted a note of uncertainty to stock market. The decline, however, was not extensive enough to bring about sympathetic liquidation in stocks.

Higher stocks included Texas Co., Paramount Pictures, American Telephone, du Pont, General Electric, Bethlehem Steel, United Aircraft, and Radio Corp.

Lower were Southern Pacific, Anaconda Copper, International Nickel, American Cyanamid, American Can, Chrysler, and International Harvester.

Employers Asked Opinions of Law

A limited number of employers in the Kingston area are being asked for their opinions on the state Unemployment Insurance Law and whether they think it should be amended further.

A survey questionnaire has been sent out by the State Legislative Affairs Committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce to determine if additional amendments would be "in the best interests of industrial expansion and increased employment," the Chamber announced today.

Data gathered as a result of the survey will be tabulated and combined with similar information from other cities.

Chairman of the local chamber's Legislative Affairs Committee is Attorney Hugh Elwyn, who requests that those receiving questionnaires fill them out and return them as soon as possible.

The Hughes-Brees amendments to the law, setting up reduced rates for firms who maintain stable employment, removed an important cost handicap which New York firms formerly suffered in competition with out-of-state rivals, Harold Keller, state commerce commissioner, has pointed out.

"It is cheering to know that a great impediment to attracting new industry to the state has now been removed," Keller said in a statement issued following passage of the amendments. "It is significant also that the 2,445 firms which will pay the lowest rate of 0.7 per cent are all in the category of small business," he said. He also pointed out that the state Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund has reached the highest point in its history, approximately $1,200,000,000.

The present survey seeks to obtain specific data on the influence of present provisions on certain qualifications and insurance payments.

Final plans for the donkey baseball game Wednesday will be discussed. Refreshments will follow the meeting. Commander Wilson Tinney urged all members to attend.

About 90 per cent of the proved reserves of natural gas in the United States are in five states—Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Governor Calls For Civil Defense To Be Continued

The Civil Defense effort in New York state, which he termed "the best in the nation for the last five years," must not be permitted to relax because of the military truce in Korea, Governor Thomas E. Dewey said in a statement to Civil Defense directors and released here today by Col. Allan L. Hanstein, Ulster county director.

"We have no assurance that the 'cease fire' order means real peace. This is no time to let down our home-front defense efforts," the governor said.

Wagner Blames Gangsters, Says They Back Mayor

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mayoral aspirant Robert F. Wagner Jr. blames alleged threats against Tammany Leader Carmine De Sapio on "gangsters and hoodleums" and implied they were supporters of Mayor Vincent Impellitteri.

Impellitteri is Wagner's leading opponent for the Democratic nomination in next month's primary.

Reports Saturday said De Sapio has been threatened with harm if he does not quit the Tammany leadership, and that other Tammany leaders supporting Wagner also have been threatened.

De Sapio said yesterday he had "nothing to say" about the reports.

Wagner, Manhattan Borough president, said in a statement yesterday that he did not know who had threatened De Sapio and the other leaders, adding:

"I can only guess. But in guessing, I can put two and two together as can all thinking citizens."

Referring to Manhattan leaders who "brazingly," reversed themselves and announced support of Impellitteri, Wagner said some of these leaders have been linked with the underworld by testimony before the State Crime Commission and the former Kefauver Senate Crime Committee.

Impellitteri was not immediately available for comment on Wagner's statement.

Praising De Sapio and others for refusing to be "bought or intimidated," Wagner said the threats made the primary "clearly a fight between the people and the forces of evil."

STAFF OF LIFE FOR PAKISTAN—The first shipload of U. S. wheat for hungry Pakistan arrives in Karachi aboard the SS Anchorage Victory from New York. At right, native dock workers unload the grain, using primitive hand-woven baskets. The camel, at left, can't vocalize his feelings, so he carries a sign to express his gratitude. More wheat will be shipped to Karachi under an agreement between the U. S. and Pakistan.

Wheat Threshing by Sledge

Staff Is at Air Base

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—"Denver White House," the telephone operator greets you when you call President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base. The President's modest office is in the base administration building. It's a room about 12 by 15 feet, less than a third the size of the presidential office in Washington. On newly lettered signs over other office doors down the corridor are the names of the small staff of aides who accompanied Eisenhower from Washington. The President's staff is living at the base, but his own vacation home is at the Denver residence of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Snake Fancier Recovers; Bitten By 2-Foot Rattler

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A 63-year-old snake fancier, bitten at home by a timber rattlesnake, was recovering today after treatment with three vials of anti-venom serum.

The victim, William J. O. Salmon, earlier had been listed in critical condition and St. Elizabeth's Hospital authorities pressed a city-wide search for serum.

Salmon, a resident of Manhattan (570 W. 182nd street), was bitten on the left thumb last night while feeding the rattler in his apartment. He killed the two-foot snake, which he said he had been raising for a friend. Although long interested in snakes, he had only the one rattler recently, he said. Salmon is translator for Dun and Bradstreet, financial publishers and credit raters.

As nurses gave him blood plasma early today, he remarked:

"I guess this finishes me. No more snakes."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

One of the oldest maps I ever actually had in my hands was just loaned to me by Sam Scudder. At the bottom of nearly every page of this colorful neatly printed and drawn map is the following: "Entered according to Act of Congress Nov. 20th, 1829 by D. F. Robinson and Co." In parts where it is torn I could see that it was repaired by strips of hand woven cloth and glued with no doubt homemade paste. Before me is part of the map of the Eastern States. I see the Hudson river on which I see New York, West Point, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, then Catskill, Hudson and Albany. On full map of the states Kingston is shown on other side of the river. Below "Oregon Territory" is printed "unexplored region" and below that California is shown. Those were the days before movies and Hollywood.

There is an illustrated sheet torn out from a geography book of perhaps the 1820 vintage. One item on Greece states: "Greece is famous in history for the highest excellence in literature and the fine arts. The ancient Greek poets, philosophers, historians, and orators, and the remains of Grecian architecture and sculpture, are studied as models by all scholars and artists. The little republic of Greece, (square miles 10,026. Population 810,000) more than 2,000 years ago, vanquished the mightiest armies of the east, in a series of battles the most wonderful that history ever recorded. After having been for centuries under the Turks, Greece revolted in 1821, and is now again independent.

"The government is a constitutional monarchy, and Price Otho, of Bavaria, is the first king. At the time the Greeks were known as the best sailors in the Mediterranean." They certainly had interesting geography books 130 years ago.

On the back cover of this map, there are testimonial letters from various college presidents such as the Rev. H. Humphrey, DD, president of Amherst College, dated Feb. 27, 1829. He wrote that he had examined the new Geography and Atlas, for school use and thinks J. Olney did a fine job. The true title was "The New and Improved School Atlas, to accompany the practical system of Modern Geography" by J. Olney, AM.

Mr. Scudder also owns a map, copyrighted in 1896, by G. W. and C. B. Colton and Co. of "Greater New York." At the time New York's population was 3,200,000. This map was put out by the Candee Rubber Company, makers of overshoes. The number of square miles in New York was 318 at the time. The highest completed building (Oct. 1896) in New York proper was the American Surety Building, corner of Broadway and Pine street. It had 23 stories and was 306 feet high. The four richest men in New York at the time were: Cornelius Vanderbilt, John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller and William Waldorf Astoria. Their combined wealth was $500,000,000. With every bit of information on the map, the Candee advertisers stated facts about their own product, such as: "The combined wealth of these four men could not buy a better overshoe than the "Candee" for there isn't any." or "The number of rubber boots and shoes produced in a year by the Candee Rubber Co. is 5,000,000 pairs."

Women May Attend Civil Defense School

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Women will be admitted to the New York State Civil Defense Rescue Training School next month for the first time since it was founded in Albany in 1951.

The state's Civil Defense director, Lt. Gen. C. R. Huebner, announced last night that a specially selected group of 20 women, from the state's major target cities, will start a special four-day course Sept. 29.

The women then will assist their local rescue chiefs in training other women for duty in event of emergency. Only outstanding Civil Defense workers, who have completed the state's basic warden course and the first aid course, will be eligible for the State Rescue Training School instruction. Their expenses will be paid by the state for the special course.

Sailor, Marine Killed

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A sailor and a marine, home on leave, were killed early today when their automobile went out of control on North Channel bridge across Jamaica Bay in Queens. The two were identified as Tyrone Tous, 24, of Manhattan, a sailor whose station was not known immediately, and Marine Pvt. Robert J. Weydener, 18, of Manhattan, stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C. A third youth, Joseph Melhado, 17, of Manhattan, was taken to Rockaway Beach Hospital, where he was reported in serious condition with multiple injuries. Police said Tous was driving the car when it skidded, jumped a curbing and smashed into the concrete wall of the bridge.

Ex-Queen Tells Egyptians She Is Without Funds

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 10 (AP)—Ex-Queen Narriman reportedly has told Egyptian authorities she is broke and needs a government allowance.

The independent newspaper Al Ahram said today the estranged wife of deposed King Farouk had asked financial assistance and also requested the return of personal effects left behind in four Egyptian palaces when she followed her husband into exile last year.

The 19-year-old former Queen has lived quietly at her mother's villa at suburban Heliopolis since she left Farouk and returned last March to Egypt. She has been seen in public only once at the swank Semiramis hotel, but has spent some time at the beach at Alexandria.

Despite repeated statements by Narriman's uncles that she would sue for a divorce and claim her son, former King Ahmed Fuad II, no proceedings have been announced. The child is with his father.

Wagner Blames Gangsters, Says They Back Mayor

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mayoral aspirant Robert F. Wagner Jr. blames alleged threats against Tammany Leader Carmine De Sapio on "gangsters and hoodlums" and implied they were supporters of Mayor Vincent Impellitteri.

Impellitteri is Wagner's leading opponent for the Democratic nomination in next month's primary.

Reports Saturday said De Sapio has been threatened with harm if he does not quit the Tammany leadership, and that other Tammany leaders supporting Wagner also have been threatened.

De Sapio said yesterday he had "nothing to say" about the reports.

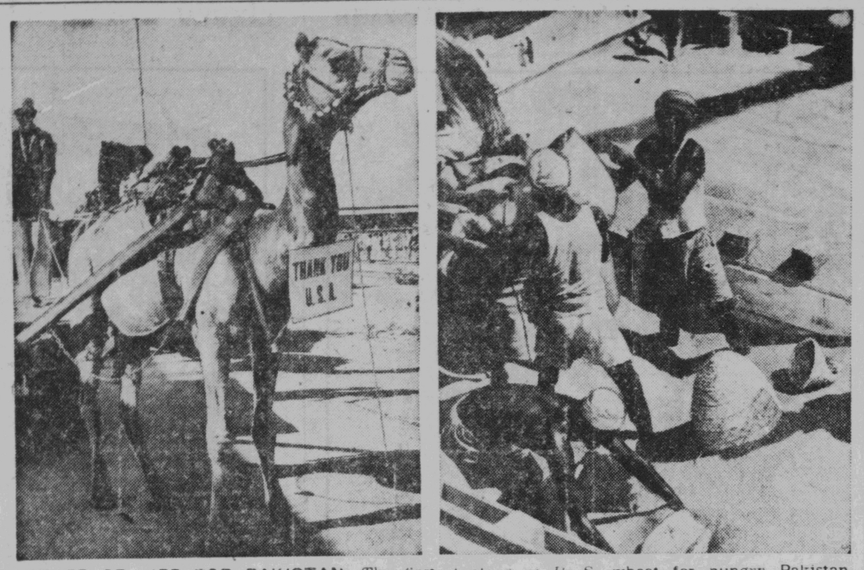

Wagner, Manhattan Borough president, said in a statement yesterday that he did not know who had threatened De Sapio and the other leaders, adding:

"I can only guess. But in guessing, I can put two and two together as can all thinking citizens."

Referring to Manhattan leaders who "brazingly," reversed themselves and announced support of Impellitteri, Wagner said some of these leaders have been linked with the underworld by testimony before the State Crime Commission and the former Kefauver Senate Crime Committee.

Impellitteri was not immediately available for comment on Wagner's statement.

Praising De Sapio and others for refusing to be "bought or intimidated," Wagner said the threats made the primary "clearly a fight between the people and the forces of evil."

STAFF OF LIFE FOR PAKISTAN—The first shipload of U. S. wheat for hungry Pakistan arrives in Karachi aboard the SS Anchorage Victory from New York. At right, native dock workers unload the grain, using primitive hand-woven baskets. The camel, at left, can't vocalize his feelings, so he carries a sign to express his gratitude. More wheat will be shipped to Karachi under an agreement between the U. S. and Pakistan.

Wheat Threshing by Sledge

Staff Is at Air Base

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP)—"Denver White House," the telephone operator greets you when you call President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base. The President's modest office is in the base administration building. It's a room about 12 by 15 feet, less than a third the size of the presidential office in Washington. On newly lettered signs over other office doors down the corridor are the names of the small staff of aides who accompanied Eisenhower from Washington. The President's staff is living at the base, but his own vacation home is at the Denver residence of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Snake Fancier Recovers; Bitten By 2-Foot Rattler

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A 63-year-old snake fancier, bitten at home by a timber rattlesnake, was recovering today after treatment with three vials of anti-venom serum.

The victim, William J. O. Salmon, earlier had been listed in critical condition and St. Elizabeth's Hospital authorities pressed a city-wide search for serum.

Salmon, a resident of Manhattan (570 W. 182nd street), was bitten on the left thumb last night while feeding the rattler in his apartment. He killed the two-foot snake, which he said he had been raising for a friend. Although long interested in snakes, he had only the one rattler recently, he said. Salmon is translator for Dun and Bradstreet, financial publishers and credit raters.

As nurses gave him blood plasma early today, he remarked:

"I guess this finishes me. No more snakes."

urse Snatcher nows Kindness f City Authorities

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—The two ced each other in Brooklyn fely court—James Lane, 25, a conruction worker idled for several eeks by a strike, and Mrs. Anna rown, 80, a great grandmother. Lane was accused yesterday of atching Mrs. Brown's purse as he returned home early in the orning after baby-sitting Saturay night with a great grandchild. Mrs. Brown's screams attracted he attention of two passing dectives, and Lane was quickly apehended.

The detectives, Joseph P. Murha and Stanley Esko, told Magtrate Abner C. Surpless that ane insisted he was desperate, hat for two days neither he nor is wife nor their two infant hildren had eaten.

A check at Lane's flat, the officrs said, verified his story. Murtha aid he and Esko bought groceries for the Lanes and the children, Dolores, 1 year old, and Terry, 1 month old. Murtha added:

"I've never seen anybody eat the way all of them did. They were really hungry."

Mrs. Brown appeared none too willing to press charges. But the judge said it would be mandatory to hold Lane for a hearing on a charge of larceny.

However, the magistrate set bail at $500 instead of $5,000 which he said he customarily sets in purse-snatching cases.

A bondsman volunteered to put up bail without charge.

Dance Etiquette

Dance floor manners are important, but the basic eitquette is easy to remember, says Arthur Murray, dance expert. He makes these suggestions:

A girl never asks a young man to dance; she must wait until he asks her, then reply politely.

At the end of a dance, the young man always escorts his partner to her seat thanking her for the dance.

Remember a polite smile is the best asset on the dance floor.

On the other hand, a number of southern and western Democrats are drawing away from their old party to the same extent that the Dewey group in the east is repudiating Republican principles, and for the same reasons, in reverse. George, Ellender, Russell, Hoey, Byrd, Frear and Eastland, of the southern tier, and McCarran and Johnson, of Nevada and Colorado, are, in general terms, of this movement.

These cautious viewings must, of course, be opinionated but, on the whole, this survey is my impression of the strength in favor of the republic established by the Constitution. If a prairie fire party essays to sweep the country in a flame of anger, this will be the approximate source of its strength in the Senate. Useful Advertising

By FRANK TRIPP

People who are critical of advertising little realize how dependent they are upon it, how they profit materially by it through the savings it brings them, regardless of their antipathy. Every advertisement that motivates action increases volume, reduces cost.

This chronicler once raised a minor rucus in the newspaper world by saying that there is no absolutely worthless advertising; that an ad written on a man's cuff would have some value.

The statement was unprovable. At that time advertising was not the science that it is today. Few methods existed to distinguish the useless from the useful, save through clumsy trial and error.

Frank Tripp

Advertisers were just beginning to discover that the space they occupied in a publication, on a billboard, barn or fence was not advertising at all; was just a rented location in which to place advertising. The space of itself was, and still is, as useless for its intended purpose as is a rented house before the furniture is moved in.

* * *

IT WAS a popular pastime to condemn advertising media of every sort if the appeals placed in them did not "pull." Research has proved that the burden to produce results rests as much upon the message as upon the medium, often infinitely more. The pioneer mail order advertiser knew this from the start.

Since the advent of airwave advertising, paradoxical things are happening. Radio and television have become the whipping boys, the printed word the fair-haired favorite with the lay critic, according to the surveys.

It is interesting to speculate why this happened. One answer may be found in the elements of intrusion and escape. Printed advertising does not intrude, is forced upon no one, and is easily escaped if one would avoid it. The free man's resentment of that which is forced upon him enters the picture.

So, airwave advertising is passing through an era of criticism such as did its sire, the printed word. Quite likely the remedy lies where printed advertising found it; in the copy (the commercial) rather than in the medium. The longer it takes the offspring to discover this, the happier his grandpappy will be.

NORTHWESTERN University has made housewife surveys in Chicago since 1944. In 1944, answering the question "What kind of advertising is most useful to you?" 38.95 per cent said newspapers, 36.23 per cent said magazines. Eight years later, in 1952, the survey showed 48.6 per cent for newspapers, 30 per cent for magazines.

Against this, in 1944 radio was declared most useful by 15.64 per cent. In 1952 radio was down to 6.4 per cent. Television was not a factor in 1944, but in 1952 it was barely above radio with 10.5 per cent; under newspapers nearly one to five and magazines one to three.

It is both surprising and significant that only newspaper advertising went up in popularity between 1944 and 1952, while airwave advertising lost nearly two-thirds, right in the spectacular years of its volume ascendency.

* * *

CHICAGO women were quite pronounced in their likes and dislikes. Asked what media they would prefer without advertising, 65 per cent said radio, 61 per cent said TV. Only 6.7 per cent wanted adless newspapers, only 10 per cent adless magazines. Of course, without advertising, they would have next to nothing.

Asked what advertising is most distasteful to them, 27 per cent said radio, 22.4 per cent said TV, 12.5 per cent said circulars, 11.3 per cent said billboards, 9.9 per cent said theatre screen, the same for direct mail, and 3.5 per cent said car cards.

Less than one in 100, only .06 per cent, disliked newspaper ads, and not a one disliked the magazines'. Conversely, 92.4 per cent definitely want newspaper ads, 88 per cent want magazine ads; while radio and TV tied at 33 per cent. Two out of three would be rid of ads on the air, if they had their say.

The airwave boys must learn to take it, and profit thereby. It was critical surveys like these that borned the Bureau of Advertising's Continuing Study of Newspaper Reading.

This continuous scientific analysis of reader reaction for years has been the barometer which (with vigilant self-policing) keeps newspaper advertising increasingly acceptable to readers.

Acceptability is a prime requisite of usefulness.

There is a great difference between a bridge hand as it is played in the books and the same hand as it may be played at the table by human beings. One difference is that you can't fool the books but you can fool human beings. The point is illustrated by today's hand, taken from last year's national championships.

South reached the perfectly logical contract of four hearts, and West made the perfectly logical opening lead of the king of diamonds. The play proceeded for a while just as it would in the books. The defenders took two diamond tricks, and West then led the ten of spades.

South correctly decided that West would not make so dangerous a lead if he had the queen of spades, and he therefore played a low spade from the dummy and won with the king in his own hand. He drew trumps in two rounds, cashed the ace of spades, and gave up the lead to East's queen of spades.

At this point, the hand is over from the book point of view. East must return a club (since a diamond return would allow declarer to ruff in one hand and discard a club from the other), and South merely plays for the club honors to be split. For example, suppose East returns the deuce of clubs.

South plays low, and West must play the jack to force out dummy's king. Dummy now returns a club, and South finesses the ten. South thus makes his contract, and the book is happy.

When this hand is played by live human beings, an expert East would see this situation and would return the queen of clubs instead of a low club. This gives South something to think about.

Should South still play the club honors to be split (in other words, take the ace of clubs and finesse through West for the jack of clubs), or should South assume that East has led from a club holding headed by the queen and jack?

The point is that South has to guess, and there is quite a possibility that he will guess wrong. When the hand was actually played, South decided to play East for the queen-jack of clubs, and therefore won the club return with dummy's king. When the finesse of the ten of clubs lost, South was set.

Dance Etiquette

Dance floor manners are important, but the basic eitquette is easy to remember, says Arthur Murray, dance expert. He makes these suggestions:

A girl never asks a young man to dance; she must wait until he asks her, then reply politely.

On the other hand, a number of southern and western Democrats are drawing away from their old party to the same extent that the Dewey group in the east is repudiating Republican principles, and for the same reasons, in reverse. George, Ellender, Russell, Hoey, Byrd, Frear and Eastland, of the southern tier, and McCarran and Johnson, of Nevada and Colorado, are, in general terms, of this movement.

These cautious viewings must, of course, be opinionated but, on the whole, this survey is my impression of the strength in favor of the republic established by the Constitution. If a prairie fire party essays to sweep the country in a flame of anger, this will be the approximate source of its strength in the Senate. The division in the House is about the same and along the same slightly meandering lines.

Miss Marion Cubberly, Charles Jansen Wed In Hurley, July 25

Miss Marion Patricia Cubberly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cubberly of Hurley, was wed to Charles William Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jansen of Hurley, at a 3 p. m. ceremony Saturday, July 25, in the Hurley Reformed Church. The Rev. John Dykstra performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Gordon Burhans was the organist and John La Falce, the soloist from Poughkeepsie, sang Through the Years. Miss Joan Ten Eyck sang the Lord's Prayer. Around the altar were white gladioli and white roses. The church pews were decorated with white flowers and white satin bows.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an imported Chantilly lace gown with nylon tulle over slipper satin, portrait neckline, tight bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her bouffant lace skirt had an apron effect in the front of tulle and a bustle effect in the back and terminated in a small chapel train. Her finger tip veil of imported French illusion was caught to a half hat trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of daisy pom-poms with a shower of sweet peas.

Miss Joan Ten Eyck of Hurley was her cousin's maid of honor. She wore a sheer pale blue floor length gown with fitted bodice, scoop neck and a full skirt over deep turquoise taffeta with matching cummerbund. She wore a white horsehair picture hat and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow daisy pom-poms and dark blue delphiniums.

Mrs. Marjorie Rando, the bride's sister, and Mrs. Gloria Swart were the bridesmaids. They wore gowns fashioned after that of the maid of honor in pale blue embroidered organdy over aqua taffeta. Their hats and flowers were also identical to the honor attendant's.

Kenneth Davis of Shokan was his cousin's best man. Raymond Snyder and Robert Snyder, both of Hurley, served as ushers.

A reception for 75 people was held after the ceremony in Hurley hall.

After the wedding trip to the New England states, Mr. and Mrs. Jansen will make their home in Hurley.

New York—(NEA) — Corduroy is no longer a classic. It's come out of the woods to enter a new fashion world both on the campus and away from it. This fall, it's used for young fashions and for sophisticated clothes as well.

The news in corduroy lies in patterns, color and finish. Calico prints, for instance, are authentic copies of the calico dresses of the 1850's. Roses are strewn over a black surface for truly sophisticated "fancy pants." In one group of prints, there's a black-and-white chevron design that has the look of tweed. And there's almond green combined with black for the appearance of woven boucle. This is cut into a suit and piped in leather.

In some of the fine-ribbed patterns, Aztec weaves are copied in colors both subtle and odd. These patterns appear in slacks and in dance dresses. Black corduroy is cut into a late-day dress and corduroy in a khaki tone is seen in long shorts paired with a shirt in a lighter shade.

We show (left) a weskit and flared skirt in a chevron tweed pattern. This is a fine-ribbed corduroy. It's worn here with a long-sleeved white blouse.

Camp Woodland Will Present Cantata in Honor of Leader

A cantata honoring Catskill-born Sojourner Truth, leader of the movement for abolition and women's rights, will be performed at the 13th annual folk festival of the Catskills at Chichester, Saturday evening, Aug. 15, by the Camp Woodland chorus led by Bob deCormier. The cantata was commissioned by Camp Woodland, sponsor of the festival. Music for Sojourner Truth was composed by Bob deCormier, music director of the camp. The script was written by Carl Abrams.

"The presentation of a cantata about Sojourner Truth, born a slave in the village of Hurley in the Catskill mountains when slavery still existed in New York state, is an event of special importance in the history of our festival," says Norman Studer, founder of the Catskill Folk Festival. "All these years we have been bringing to light the contributions which the Dutch, Irish, Scotch, and other groups have made to the culture and history of the region. As an interracial camp we are particularly proud this year to do homage to a courageous Negro woman whose roots were in this mountain region."

The festival also will be the occasion for the annual gathering of ballad singers, story tellers, jig dancers, and fidlers from the Catskill region. These performers will share the platform with city children from Camp Woodland in a joint presentation of folksongs and folklore collected during the past years by the camp.

For the past 15 years the campers have been going on trips through the mountains, interviewing woodsmen, hunters, rangers and old residents of the area, collecting songs, stories and square dances. Once a year the camp brings together its neighbors in the area for a public presentation of the folklore of the area.

Patrolman Captures Two Young Suspects

New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—A patrolman on duty in a police booth outside Gracie Mansion, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's official residence, captured two young burglar suspects in the basement storeroom of a nearby grocery last night.

Word was relayed to Patrolman Edward Kelly that a resident of an apartment house across the street had seen two youths break into the grocery.

Kelly, who went into the basement with gun drawn, reported arresting Richard Macchia, 18, and Frank Amellio, 16. The pair, who police said carried a flashlight and a screwdriver, were charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools.

BREAK THE CUSTOM

"I am going to be married soon," a bride-to-be writes, "and am concerned about a local custom. Even though it is not correct etiquette, some guests persist in bringing gifts to the wedding, and though I would prefer not to open any gifts at the reception, I'm afraid that I might hurt their feelings by not doing so. Since it is a small town and this custom is common here, would it be better to open the gifts rather than risk offending anyone?"

I agree that you are right in not wishing to open your presents at the reception. I think it would be a mistake for you alone to make such a radical change. If there were to be several weddings and all the brides agreed to break the custom of not interrupting the reception proceeding to open their gifts the practice would then become local custom and you, of course, would follow it.

In Your Stocking Feet

Dear Mrs. Post: I don't think I have ever seen this subject discussed in your column before and would very much like to have your views on it. So many women have a habit of slipping out of their shoes as soon as they are seated, and either sitting in their stocking feet, or with their feet partially out of their shoes. Of course, with the type of shoes the women wear nowadays it is very easy to do. This is by no means a rare practice for I have seen it done time and time again and by women who should know better. To me it shows lack of breeding.

It certainly is not the thing to do. In fact, personally, I have never seen it and the thought of seeing people sitting in their stocking feet is very unpleasant.

Guest Speaker Not Set Apart

Dear Mrs. Post: We are having a well-known guest speaker at our next woman's club meeting, after which a buffet luncheon will be served. I would like to know if the guest speaker should be escorted to the buffet table and allowed to help herself first, or doesn't the rule that the guest of honor be served first, apply to a buffet party?

Answer: It doesn't apply. She undoubtedly will go into the dining room among the first; but it is not expected that everyone stand aside and make her conspicuous.

Waterfall Earrings for Round Face, Ball for Thin

Two Die in Crash

Brentwood, Aug. 10 (AP)—A 35-year-old man and his daughter were killed yesterday when their car was struck by a Long Island Railroad train. The victims were identified as Joseph Plaja of Brentwood, and his daughter, Anita, 15. Police quoted the Diesel locomotive's engineer, Thomas Nome, 54, as saying the car driven by Plaja drove directly onto the tracks in the path of his speeding train. The accident occurred at the Grant avenue crossing in nearby Edgewood. The train had been eastbound from Jamaica.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. ®Trade Mark.

"That Makes 14 New Ones on This Street!"

We suspect it was a most congenial gathering—for Cadillac owners have many splendid things in common.

First of all—taking them by and large—they are exceptional people. For the most part, they are men and women who have held to high standards of achievement for many years. They have a common feeling for the finer things in life. And they have a sound sense of values.

But—despite what so many mistakenly believe—they are not necessarily blessed with an abundance of this world's goods. For a Cadillac is a practical car to own—and is a splendid selection for the family of moderate means.

—a Cadillac will travel many more miles on a gallon of gasoline than you could ever logically expect from a car of its size and stature!

—a Cadillac is so dependable and long-lived that it is just about as economical to service and maintain as any car you could buy!

—and, finally—according to authentic used car evaluations—a Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its cost at the time of resale than any other car built in America.

In view of all this, it is no cause for wonder that fourteen wise and practical people, residing in a single small neighborhood, should have taken delivery of new Cadillacs during the fleeting weeks of a northern spring.

The wonder is that more people don't buy Cadillacs. For when a car combines so much quality and beauty and comfort and prestige—with such outstanding over-all practicality—it is a very wise choice for a very great many people.

Maybe it's the car for you. If you think it is, you are most cordially invited to come in and see us today.

Sore-Armed Billy Pierce Life-Saver For Chisox; Williams Hits Homer

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Whether Chicago's Billy Pierce is the best lefthanded pitcher in baseball is open to argument but there is no doubt where the White Sox would be today without him.

Mathews Hits 36th

Eddie Mathews, National League home run leader, smacked his 36th as the Milwaukee Braves swept both ends of a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-4 and 10-3.

Philadelphia's Gus Zernial took over the American League's home run lead, hitting his 28th and 29th as the Athletics defeated and tied the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 8-8. Each game went 10 innings. Zernial's homer in the second game was a grand slammer in a pinch hit role. He had to leave the opener with a pulled Achilles' tendon in his left heel.

Satchel Paige relieved St. Louis starter Duane Pillette to snuff out a Washington threat in the eighth and was credited with the 3-0 victory in the first game. The Senators walked off with the second game 12-3.

Pierce Life Saver

Pierce's brilliant pitching was a life-saver for the White Sox after the Yankees whipped them in the first three of the vital four game series. Manager Paul Richards had announced Saturday that Pierce's arm was stiff and sore, but an overnight miracle must have occurred. Pierce permitted only three hits and fanned eight to run his league leading total to 137. He now owns a consecutive scoreless inning streak of 24 2/3.

Rookie first baseman Bob Boyd, playing in place of the injured Ferris Fain, smashed three hits including his first major league home run.

Braves Keep Rolling

Showing no signs of folding, the Braves pounded out 26 hits in their double victory over Pittsburgh to cut Brooklyn's first place margin to seven games. Andy Pafko slammed a pair of homers in the nightcap to enable Jim Wilson to coast to his fourth triumph.

Russ Meyer threw a three-hitter against Cincinnati, his 12th triumph against five losses as the Dodgers handed the Reds their sixth straight defeat.

Joe Presko, who previously had lost three straight to New York, hurled a five-hitter against the Giants as the Cardinals moved into a third place tie with the Phillies.

Booster Meeting

A reorganizational meeting of the Booster Bowling League will be held tonight at 7:30 at Ferraro's Bowlodrome. All 1952-53 captains and persons interested in a franchise are invited.

Rice Drops Ball as Irvin Spikes Him

Monte Irvin, Giants' outfielder, is safe as he slides into plate when Del Rice, Cardinals' catcher, drops his mitt and ball (bottom, foreground) in fourth inning of game at Busch Stadium, St. Louis. The left pants leg of Rice's uniform is riped as Irvin spikes cut a six-inch cut in his leg that needed six stitches to close. Irvin scored from third after Bobby Thomson flied to Rip Repulski in centerfield. Cards won, 6-2.

By The Associated Press

Batting—Gus Zernial, Athletics and Ted Williams, Red Sox— Zernial, who came to bat only twice because of a heel injury, hit his 28th homer in the first game to beat the Tigers, 4-3, and smashed a grand slammer in a pinch hit role in the second game as the A's came from behind to tie 8-8.

Williams, making only his second appearance at the plate since he returned from Korea, slammed a 420-foot home run as a pinch hitter for Boston but he couldn't stop Cleveland from defeating the Red Sox 9-3.

Pitching—Billy Pierce, White Sox—despite a "stiff and sore" pitching arm, the Chicago lefthander shut out the Yankees 5-0 with three hits while striking out eight to extend his consecutive scoreless inning streak to 24 2/3.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Now that the Poughkeepsie Regatta has been transferred, first to Marietta, Ohio, then to Syracuse, the only major sports attraction within striking distance is the Hambletonian Stakes at Goshen.

The Hambletonian, you know, is the Kentucky Derby of trotting. If 12 horses out of the 83 three-year-olds still eligible start (16 did in 1952, 21 in 1951), the purse should exceed $105,000 Wednesday, marking the first time the famed trotting derby has hit the $100,000 mark.

The Hambletonian annually transfers Goshen from its usual rural tranquility into the fairly bursting sports capital of the United States. A day in Goshen on Hambletonian Day is one sports show you should treat yourself to before your toes start curling up.

The Orange county village is all set for the record holiday crowds. Churches are ready to serve chicken and corn on the cob on spacious lawns, houses have been dusted and aired to supplement the three hotels' bedrooms, newly resurfaced Good Time track is reported exceptionally fast by trainers working over it. Goshen is ready for its short-lived, but bigtime crack at world fame as the biggest little sports town in the USA.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

A few items of interest about the Hambletonian:

It now costs $1460 to start a horse in the Hambletonian. The starting fee, due 48 hours before post time (3 p. m., EDT, Aug. 12) was raised $5,000 this year, making $1,000 the final payment. A total of $460 precedes the starting fee, with the first payment of $10 when the horse is foaled and started on his or her road to hoped-for glory. The last two years have seen upsets in the Hambletonian. Mainliner, driven by the late Guy Crippen, 59, in 1951, when he drove the colt to an unpredicted victory, required only two straight heats to win. Last year, with Hit Song and Duke of Lullwater highly favored, Sharp Note, piloted by the then 74-year-old Bi Shively, captured top honors. But it took him three heats to do it, first race since 1947 to require a third heat. Newport Star, one of the probable leading favorites in the $105,000 race, is tutored and raced by Del Cameron, 33, who hopes to lower the 18-year mark held by the late Dr. H. M. Parshall who was 34 when he won at Goshen in 1934.

• Other Items on the Hambletonian:

Pari-mutuel betting on the trotters, which was inaugurated at Good Time Park in 1940, continues to be on each event, dash or heat, making each equine battle a seperate race for the bettors. Hambletonian winners of 1951-52, Mainliner and Sharp Note, will both compete in the Trotting Derby Aug. 13, closing day feature for Good Time Park. Peter Lind's recent climb toward a highly favored spot gives New York and New Jersey each a top-rated colt for this year's classic. Of the 27 Hambletonian races to date, fillies have copped only eight to 19 colts and geldings, the most of the few geldings being the world champion Greyhound, who won the race in 1935. Goshen, with a normal population of under 4,000, will swell to nearly 10 times that number Wednesday. In the last 10 Hambletonians, the youngest driver was Del Miller, 37, in 1950 when he won with Lusty Song. Harrison Hoyt, hat maker of Bethal, Conn., was 39 when he drove his own Demon Hanover. This year, Hoyt has a half interest in Lloyd Frederick, who he will pilot.

Volomite, who sired Kimberly Kid, is probably the top sire of the sulky classic. Last year, his get won $670,000 in various events, a new record for any sire in any year. In the Hambletonian, Volomite has sired Volo Song, 1943; Yankee Maid, 1944; Chestertown, 1946; Lusty Song, 1950. Grandsons, Mainliner and Sharp Note, won it in 1951-52. In bucolic Goshen, the show is an American phenomenon. A strange commentary on the Corn Tassel Derby, however, is that with all its importance, build-up, tremendous publicity, and its proximity to metropolitan centers, the production doesn't attract more than 25,000 persons. You'd suspect that it would play to 100,000.

Cards Nines of 30 and 31 With 3 Eagles, 6 Birdies

Alvin Boice, the man with the booming drives and magic putting touch, took Twaalfskill's hallowed layout apart with a sensational "61" Saturday for a new all-time amateur course record.

Carding nines of 31 and 30, the silent swinger, who is one of the most dogged competitors in local golf, fired three eagles, six birdies and, strangely enough, a pair of bogies to finish 9 strokes under Twaalfskill's par 70.

The 61 lowered the course record of 64 set a few weeks ago by Clarence "Dubby" Raichle and came within a stroke of equalling Alex Gerlak's all-time course mark of 60.

Boice was hiting long drives and pitching magnificently as he feasted on Twaalfskill's two "eagle" holes—the fourth and seventh. He twice drove the 4th for eagles, running down a 15-footer the first time and chipping from the edge of the green for the second.

Misses 4th Eagle

The brilliant sharpshooter who has held several city and Twaalfskill crowns, eagled the 7th hole on the front nine and blew a short putt the second time around to settle for a birdie.

Gus Modjeska, Dr. Douw Meyers and George Hughes, who made up the foursome with Boice, said he missed fairly short putts on four other holes.

"Giving him half of them," said Modjeska, "he could have had a 59."

Both times, Boice sent tremendous drives toward the No. 1 green. He was four feet short the first time and then drove pin high about 8 feet off the left hand edge. He chipped close and was down for his birdie-3.

The birdies came on holes No. 2, 9, 10, 11, 15 and 16.

The "61" stands up as an even more fantastic accomplishment when the scorecard is analyzed. There you find a double bogie on the troublesome 3rd hole and a plain bogie on the 17th—a normally easy hole for the long hitting champion.

One Troublesome Hole

On the third hole, Boice's drive was short and under the green. His pitch shot hit the edge of the green and then rolled back. He recovered to get on in three and needed two putts.

Boice had all three components of his game clicking perfectly. He was splitting the fairways with tremendous drives, pitching beautifully and putting in brilliant fashion. The six birdie puts ranged from three to 15 feet. There was only a couple serious letdowns in his traditional putting magic. That was a two-footer he flubbed on the 16th and a 30-incher on the first green.

The card:

Par Out	433	453	544—35
Boice Out ...	425	253	343—31
Par In	433	453	544—35
Boice In	323	252	454—30

Twi Loop Enters Final Phase of Pennant Chase

Joneses-Merchants Carded Wednesday

The crucial phase of the City Baseball League's second half gets under way Wednesday when Jones Dairy challenges the Colonial Merchants for first place.

Either of the duo in form would insure a tremendous pitching duel with Bruce Bechtold or Bruce "Red" Hinkley, the two first line Jones flingers. Clark Mains is on the Joneses rosters but is not available for midweek competition.

Dairymen Threat

Somewhat subdued in the first half, won by Wiltwyck Motors, the Jones Dairy squad has emerged as one of the second half powers. They're the team to beat and their stretch run with the Merchants will be interesting to watch, since the Motormen are in a precarious position with two losses.

The standings:

City League

	W	L
Colonial Merchants	3	1
Jones Dairy	3	1
Wiltwyck Motors	3	2
Doblers	1	2
Kingston Indians	0	4

This Week's Schedule

Tuesday—Doblers vs. Indians
Wednesday—Joneses vs. Merchants
Thursday—Wiltwycks vs. Indians

How to Play Par Golf

Sharper and More Upright Arc

By JULIUS BOROS
(1952 U. S. Open Champ)

THE SLANT — Julius Boros plays the ball a little back of center, flexes the right knee to maintain balance. (NEA)

Downhill lies are a little tougher, but you can adjust the swing just as easily as the uphill.

The swing will require a sharper, more upright arc in order to get more help from the loft of the club. Use a more lofted club than you normally would for the same distance.

Hit down on the shot and STAY with it.

I would never recommend a shorter swing. We have already mentioned an upright swing. Make it a full swing, normally executed, with ease and proper timing.

Nellie Fox, second baseman with the Chicago White Sox, was born on Christmas Day, 1927, at St. Thomas, Pa.

Lew Worsham's 140-Yard Eagle Captures World Golf Tourney

Incredible Shot Ranks With Sarazen's

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP) — Lew Worsham has the answer to a question that has bothered golfers since the game was invented.

"Is a hole-in-one luck or skill?"

Worsham didn't make an ace. He did sink a long approach, estimated by onlookers as 140 yards, for an eagle 2 on the last hole yesterday to beat out Chandler Harper by one stroke for the $25,000 first prize in the "World" golf championship at Tam O'Shanter.

That shot, made with a sand wedge while Harper was being congratulated on winning the tournament, was worth $15,000. It undoubtedly was the most lucrative single shot in the history of the ancient game.

1. It meant winning the "World" championship of golf, a title lacking in prestige but compensating in cold cash—a first prize of $25,000, tops in golf. Second place paid $15,000 less.

2. Harper, who had lost two other tournaments this season by one stroke margins, had just finished with a 70 for 279, nine under Tam O'Shanter par, by pitching a No. 9 iron shot 20 inches from the cup for a cinch birdie 3.

3. Television cameras were trained on Harper. Radio commentators were praising his finish. He stood there by the 18th green being cheered for winning, on record and before 10,000 or 15,000 frenzied spectators.

4. Then came Worsham. He had just dropped a 7-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 71st hole. He needed another birdie 3 on the 410-yard 72nd to tie Harper and send the showdown into a sudden death playoff.

5. Worsham belted a tremendous drive.

6. Jimmy Demaret, famous pro, was on radio at the 18th green, lauding Harper's finish.

7. About 140 yards in front of the green, Worsham pulled a sand wedge from his bag.

8. Worsham fired away. The ball lit on the lower part of the green, bounced about three times and covered 35 to 40 feet before it rolled into the cup.

9. Harper stared in disbelief.

10. Demaret muttered one word after a pause: "Gawdamn."

11. Approximately 500 rushed toward Worsham and lifted him to their shoulder.

Old-time observers contended that it was the greatest shot in the game's history—which can be debated endlessly in the hot-stove league.

They said it will rub out that memorable 235-yard spoon shot by Gene Sarazen in 1935 that bounded into the 69th hole for a double eagle 2 during the last round of the Masters at Augusta. (That one gave Sarazen a deadlock with Craig Wood at the end, and Gene went on to win the title in a playoff.)

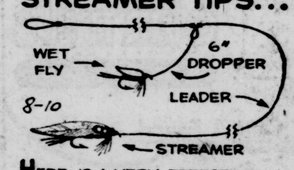

Paychek Dies

Milwaukee, Aug. 10 (AP)—Anton Pasholk, 41, who challenged Joe Louis for his heavyweight boxing crown, died Sunday. He collapsed on the street from an apparent heart attack. Pasholk fought under the name of Johnny Paychek. He met Louis in 1940 and was knocked out in the second round. He retired a year later.

The Big Ten boxing championships will be held at Iowa City, Iowa, next March 6.

Sore-Armed Billy Pierce Life-Saver For Chisox; Williams Hits Homer

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Whether Chicago's Billy Pierce is the best lefthanded pitcher in baseball is open to argument but there is no doubt where the White Sox would be today without him.

The 25-year-old ace, sore arm and all, shut out the New York Yankees yesterday 5-0 to keep alive the flag hopes of the runner-up White Sox. The victory left Chicago seven games behind New York with 44 left to play.

Sunday proved a great day for the "big names" of baseball. Ted Williams, making only his second appearance at bat for Boston since his return from Korea, smashed a towering, 420-foot pinch hit home run into the distant centerfield bleachers at Fenway Park.

Despite Ted's 325th round tripper, the Red Sox bowed to Cleveland as Mike Garcia coasted to his 14th victory, 9-3.

Stan Musial rapped his 17th home run with a teammate on base in the seventh to help the St. Louis Cardinals defeat the New York Giants 6-2 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Ralph Kiner blasted his 28th round tripper to lead the Chicago Cubs to a second game 6-5 victory after the Philadelphie Phillies had won the opener 7-0.

Mathews Hits 36th

Eddie Mathews, National League home run leader, smacked his 36th as the Milwaukee Braves swept both ends of a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-4 and 10-3.

Philadelphia's Gus Zernial took over the American League's home run lead, hitting his 28th and 29th as the Athletics defeated and tied the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 8-8. Each game went 10 innings. Zernial's homer in the second game was a grand slammer in a pinch hit role. He had to leave the opener with a pulled Achilles' tendon in his left heel.

Satchel Paige relieved St. Louis starter Duane Pillette to snuff out a Washington threat in the eighth and was credited with the 3-0 victory in the first game. The Senators walked off with the second game 12-3.

Pierce Life Saver

Pierce's brilliant pitching was a life-saver for the White Sox after the Yankees whipped them in the first three of the vital four game series. Manager Paul Richards had announced Saturday that Pierce's arm was stiff and sore, but an overnight miracle must have occurred. Pierce permitted only three hits and fanned eight to run his league leading total to 137. He now owns a consecutive scoreless inning streak of 24 2/3.

Rookie first baseman Bob Boyd, playing in place of the injured Ferris Fain, smashed three hits including his first major league home run.

Braves Keep Rolling

Showing no signs of folding, the Braves pounded out 26 hits in their double victory over Pittsburgh to cut Brooklyn's first place margin to seven games. Andy Pafko slammed a pair of homers in the nightcap to enable Jim Wilson to coast to his fourth triumph.

Russ Meyer threw a three-hitter against Cincinnati, his 12th triumph against five losses as the Dodgers handed the Reds their sixth straight defeat.

Joe Presko, who previously had lost three straight to New York, hurled a five-hitter against the Giants as the Cardinals moved into a third place tie with the Phillies.

Garrison Cops Rhinebeck Race

Doug Garrison, the Hudson Flash, won Saturday night's 50-lap feature stock race at Rhinebeck Speedway after trailing Ken Gootermote of Troy most of the way.

Rice Drops Ball as Irvin Spikes Him

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Now that the Poughkeepsie Regatta has been transferred, first to Marietta, Ohio, then to Syracuse, the only major sports attraction within striking distance is the Hambletonian Stakes at Goshen.

The Hambletonian, you know, is the Kentucky Derby of trotting. If 12 horses out of the 83 three-year-olds still eligible start (16 did in 1952, 21 in 1951), the purse should exceed $105,000 Wednesday, marking the first time the famed trotting derby has hit the $100,000 mark.

The Hambletonian annually transfers Goshen from its usual rural tranquility into the fairly bursting sports capital of the United States. A day in Goshen on Hambletonian Day is one sports show you should treat yourself to before your toes start curling up.

The Orange county village is all set for the record holiday crowds. Churches are ready to serve chicken and corn on the cob on spacious lawns, houses have been dusted and aired to supplement the three hotels' bedrooms, newly resurfaced Good Time track is reported exceptionally fast by trainers working over it. Goshen is ready for its short-lived, but bigtime crack at world fame as the biggest little sports town in the USA.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

A few items of interest about the Hambletonian:

It now costs $1460 to start a horse in the Hambletonian. The starting fee, due 48 hours before post time (3 p. m., EDT, Aug. 12) was raised $5,000 this year, making $1,000 the final payment. A total of $460 precedes the starting fee, with the first payment of $10 when the horse is foaled and started on his or her road to hoped-for glory. The last two years have seen upsets in the Hambletonian. Mainliner, driven by the late Guy Crippen, 59, in 1951, when he drove the colt to an unpredicted victory, required only two straight heats to win. Last year, with Hit Song and Duke of Lullwater highly favored, Sharp Note, piloted by the then 74-year-old Bi Shively, captured top honors. But it took him three heats to do it, first race since 1947 to require a third heat. Newport Star, one of the probable leading favorites in the $105,000 race, is tutored and raced by Del Cameron, 33, who hopes to lower the 18-year mark held by the late Dr. H. M. Parshall who was 34 when he won at Goshen in 1934.

• Other Items on the Hambletonian:

Pari-mutuel betting on the trotters, which was inaugurated at Good Time Park in 1940, continues to be on each event, dash or heat, making each equine battle a seperate race for the bettors. Hambletonian winners of 1951-52, Mainliner and Sharp Note, will both compete in the Trotting Derby Aug. 13, closing day feature for Good Time Park. Peter Lind's recent climb toward a highly favored spot gives New York and New Jersey each a top-rated colt for this year's classic. Of the 27 Hambletonian races to date, fillies have copped only eight to 19 colts and geldings, the most of the few geldings being the world champion Greyhound, who won the race in 1935. Goshen, with a normal population of under 4,000, will swell to nearly 10 times that number Wednesday. In the last 10 Hambletonians, the youngest driver was Del Miller, 37, in 1950 when he won with Lusty Song. Harrison Hoyt, hat maker of Bethal, Conn., was 39 when he drove his own Demon Hanover. This year, Hoyt has a half interest in Lloyd Frederick, who he will pilot.

Volomite, who sired Kimberly Kid, is probably the top sire of the sulky classic. Last year, his get won $670,000 in various events, a new record for any sire in any year. In the Hambletonian, Volomite has sired Volo Song, 1943; Yankee Maid, 1944; Chestertown, 1946; Lusty Song, 1950. Grandsons, Mainliner and Sharp Note, won it in 1951-52. In bucolic Goshen, the show is an American phenomenon. A strange commentary on the Corn Tassel Derby, however, is that with all its importance, build-up, tremendous publicity, and its proximity to metropolitan centers, the production doesn't attract more than 25,000 persons. You'd suspect that it would play to 100,000.

They don't know what they're missing.

Twi Loop Enters Final Phase of Pennant Chase

Joneses-Merchants Carded Wednesday

The crucial phase of the City Baseball League's second half gets under way Wednesday when Jones Dairy challenges the Colonial Merchants for first place.

Having lost a tough, extra-inning duel with Wiltwyck Motors, the pennant-minded Merchants have Big Zeke Klosterman and Bob Rybinacker available for pitching chores.

Either of the duo in form would insure a tremendous pitching duel with Bruce Bechtold or Bruce "Red" Hinkley, the two first line Jones flingers. Clark Mains is on the Joneses rosters but is not available for midweek competition.

Dairymen Threat

Somewhat subdued in the first half, won by Wiltwyck Motors, the Jones Dairy squad has emerged as one of the second half powers. They're the team to beat and their stretch run with the Merchants will be interesting to watch, since the Motormen are in a precarious position with two losses.

The standings:

City League

	W	L
Colonial Merchants	3	1
Jones Dairy	3	1
Wiltwyck Motors	3	2
Doblers	1	2
Kingston Indians	0	4

This Week's Schedule

Tuesday—Doblers vs. Indians
Wednesday—Joneses vs. Merchants
Thursday—Wiltwycks vs. Indians

How to Play Par Golf

Sharper and More Upright Arc

By JULIUS BOROS
(1952 U. S. Open Champ)

THE SLANT — Julius Boros plays the ball a little back of center, flexes the right knee to maintain balance. (NEA)

Downhill lies are a little tougher, but you can adjust the swing just as easily as the uphill.

You can have trouble getting the ball in the air because the natural roll of the turf offsets some of the loft of the club.

Open the stance and play ball a little back of the center. Flex the righ knee to maintain balance.

The swing will require a sharper, more upright arc in order to get more help from the loft of the club. Use a more lofted club than you normally would for the same distance.

Hit down on the shot and STAY with it.

If you yield to the natural tendency to pull up on a shot from a downhill lie, you will only top the ball and gain little or no altitude.

I would never recommend a shorter swing. We have already mentioned an upright swing. Make it a full swing, normally executed, with ease and proper timing.

Cards Nines of 30 and 31 With 3 Eagles, 6 Birdies

Alvin Boice, the man with the booming drives and magic putting touch, took Twaalfskill's hallowed layout apart with a sensational "61" Saturday for a new all-time amateur course record.

Carding nines of 31 and 30, the silent swinger, who is one of the most dogged competitors in local golf, fired three eagles, six birdies and, strangely enough, a pair of bogies to finish 9 strokes under Twaalfskill's par 70.

The 61 lowered the course record of 64 set a few weeks ago by Clarence "Dubby" Raichle and came within a stroke of equalling Alex Gerlak's all-time course mark of 60.

Boice was hiting long drives and pitching magnificently as he feasted on Twaalfskill's two "eagle" holes—the fourth and seventh. He twice drove the 4th for eagles, running down a 15-footer the first time and chipping from the edge of the green for the second.

Misses 4th Eagle

The brilliant sharpshooter who has held several city and Twaalfskill crowns, eagled the 7th hole on the front nine and blew a short putt the second time around to settle for a birdie.

Gus Modjeska, Dr. Douw Meyers and George Hughes, who made up the foursome with Boice, said he missed fairly short putts on four other holes.

"Giving him half of them," said Modjeska, "he could have had a 59."

Both times, Boice sent tremendous drives toward the No. 1 green. He was four feet short the first time and then drove pin high about 8 feet off the left hand edge. He chipped close and was down for his birdie-3.

The birdies came on holes No. 2, 9, 10, 11, 15 and 16.

The "61" stands up as an even more fantastic accomplishment when the scorecard is analyzed. There you find a double bogie on the troublesome 3rd hole and a plain bogie on the 17th—a normally easy hole for the long hitting champion.

One Troublesome Hole

On the third hole, Boice's drive was short and under the green. His pitch shot hit the edge of the green and then rolled back. He recovered to get on in three and needed two putts.

Boice had all three components of his game clicking perfectly. He was splitting the fairways with tremendous drives, pitching beautifully and putting in brilliant fashion. The six birdie puts ranged from three to 15 feet. There was only a couple serious letdowns in his traditional putting magic. That was a two-footer he flubbed on the 16th and a 30-incher on the first green.

The card:

Par Out	433	453	544—35
Boice Out	425	253	343—31
Par In	433	453	544—35
Boice In	323	252	454—30

Lew Worsham's 140-Yard Eagle Captures World Golf Tourney

Incredible Shot Ranks With Sarazen's

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP) — Lew Worsham has the answer to a question that has bothered golfers since the game was invented.

"Is a hole-in-one luck or skill?"

Worsham didn't make an ace. He did sink a long approach, estimated by onlookers as 140 yards, for an eagle 2 on the last hole yesterday to beat out Chandler Harper by one stroke for the $25,000 first prize in the "World" golf championship at Tam O'Shanter.

That shot, made with a sand wedge while Harper was being congratulated on winning the tournament, was worth $15,000. It undoubtedly was the most lucrative single shot in the history of the ancient game.

Let's create the drama it all entailed:

1. It meant winning the "World" championship of golf, a title lacking in prestige but compensating in cold cash—a first prize of $25,000, tops in golf. Second place paid $15,000 less.

2. Harper, who had lost two other tournaments this season by one stroke margins, had just finished with a 70 for 279, nine under Tam O'Shanter par, by pitching a No. 9 iron shot 20 inches from the cup for a cinch birdie 3.

3. Television cameras were trained on Harper. Radio commentators were praising his finish. He stood there by the 18th green being cheered for winning, on record and before 10,000 or 15,000 frenzied spectators.

4. Then came Worsham. He had just dropped a 7-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 71st hole. He needed another birdie 3 on the 410-yard 72nd to tie Harper and send the showdown into a sudden death playoff.

5. Worsham belted a tremendous drive.

6. Jimmy Demaret, famous pro, was on radio at the 18th green, lauding Harper's finish.

7. About 140 yards in front of the green, Worsham pulled a sand wedge from his bag.

8. Worsham fired away. The ball lit on the lower part of the green, bounced about three times and covered 35 to 40 feet before it rolled into the cup.

9. Harper stared in disbelief.

10. Demaret muttered one word after a pause: "Gawdamn."

11. Approximately 500 rushed toward Worsham and lifted him to their shoulder.

Old-time observers contended that it was the greatest shot in the game's history—which can be debated endlessly in the hot-stove league.

They said it will rub out that memorable 235-yard spoon shot by Gene Sarazen in 1935 that bounded into the 69th hole for a double eagle 2 during the last round of the Masters at Augusta.

(That one gave Sarazen a deadlock with Craig Wood at the end, and Gene went on to win the title in a playoff.)

Paychek Dies

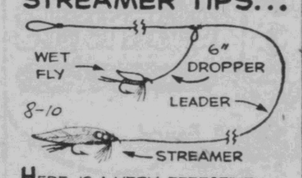

Milwaukee, Aug. 10 (AP)—Anton Pasholk, 41, who challenged Joe Louis for his heavyweight boxing crown, died Sunday. He collapsed on the street from an apparent heart attack. Pasholk fought under the name of Johnny Paychek. He met Louis in 1940 and was knocked out in the second round. He retired a year later.

The Big Ten boxing championships will be held at Iowa City, Iowa, next March 6.

Georgia Chain Gang Defeats Colonials, 7-2

Comedians Score Five Runs in 7th To Win Before 425

Zany Antics Keep Crowd in Stitches

They were serious when they had to be and highly entertaining most of the way.

Against Zeke Klosterman, the zany baseball characters led 1-0 for four innings. Then Eddie Passante pounded a two-run double down the right field line in the fifth and the Chain Gang trailed 2-1.

With Jerry Bechtold operating the Gang clustered five runs in the seventh and picked up another off Big Jim Feraro in the eighth to score a 7-2 victory.

Peter Cerrone and Georgie Hughes, who divided the pitching chores for the Chain Gang, limited Kingston to four hits—half of them by Ed Passante and singles by Harry Kite and Tom Murphy.

A Quaint Line up

The comedy started early in the evening when the Chain Gang's personal announcer gave the lineups over the PA system and included such quaint names as Lucky Luciano, Al Capone, Frank Costello, Red Dillinger, et al.

Many unorthodox bats were used, including extra long bats, bats split down the middle, one with a top fixed so it would fall apart when the batter got set to swing.

Pete Cerrone, the veteran pitcher, directed most of the comedy in the absence of Jerry Young, who was ill. He gave a running and somewhat original description of the play-by-play in the seventh inning.

In the last of the ninth, the Chain Gang used Mike Ferraro of the Little League Red Sox on first base for a couple plays.

Top Comedy Outfit

As predicted the Chain Gang was the best comic outfit—even without Jerry Young—to show here in many years. The crowd was the largest of the current season. The Gang played seriously and brilliantly when they had to and were genuinely funny without even trying.

Manager Fred Davi's lineup furnished a clue to his setup for the Hudson valley championship series which starts next Saturday, Aug. 15, at municipal stadium against Poughkeepsie. The local end of the round robin will run for the next four Saturday nights.

Surf Board Rider Drowns

Tupper Lake, Aug. 10 (AP)—A surf board rider being towed by a motorboat was drowned in Big Wolf Lake three miles north of here yesterday when he toppled into the water. Philip Torchio Jr., 43, of Bronxville, who police said was an official of the American Gas and Electric Co., failed to surface after the fall. His wife, who was riding in the boat operated by James Reynolds of Syracuse, a camper, dived into the lake in a vain attempt to save him. Torchio was a member of the Big Wolf Club camp colony for many years.

The field was fertilized and seeded according to the latest methods, but it was to no avail. It has been so dry that even weeds will not grow. As a result cattle are losing weight and the market in the area is disintegrating.

Bodies of Two Girls Found; Died in Fire

Mantoloking, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP)—The bodies of two young daughters of a Jersey City doctor were found yesterday in the ruins of their summer home, swept by a fire that started with a gasoline explosion.

The girls, Rosemary Cosgrove, 3, and her sister, Bohmelia Ann, 6, were in their father's station wagon as he drove it into the basement garage of the summer home on Sunset Boulevard Saturday.

The father, Dr. Robert Cosgrove got out of the car when he smelled fumes from a leaking gasoline can in the back, state police said. At the moment, the gas ignited and enveloped the station wagon with the girls inside.

Cosgrove said he had been carrying the gasoline in a can for an outboard motor. He himself suffered bad burns and was taken to Point Pleasant Hospital.

In 1952 the United States used almost nine trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Indiana Youth Is Derby Winner

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 10 (AP)—Freddy Mohler of Muncie, Ind., barred by his health from most boyhood sports, headed home today as king of the nation's soap boxers.

The 14-year-old, 93-pound youngster, pounding out the five fastest times of the day, defeated 150 other teen-agers from 40 states, Alaska and Germany in the 16th All-American Soap Box Derby here yesterday.

Two years ago Freddy had a thyroid ailment which physicians thought might be fatal. He's a lot better now, but he still can't play the active, outdoor games that most boys enjoy.

That he said, was what made him decide to become a soap box driver. It took him five weeks, often working into the night, to get his racer in shape for the derby. "I guess I was to busy to get sick," he grinned.

Gets $5,000 Scholarship

For his victory Freddy received a $5,000 college scholarship. Although he'll just be entering Grade 9-B in Wilson Junior High School next month, he's made up his mind about college.

He said he'd attend Ball State Teachers College in his home town, and become an industrial arts teacher. His dad, Ernest R. Mohler, is a school building custodian in Muncie.

Freddy's mother said his victory was "the greatest thing that ever happened to us. I'm not sure he would have gone to college, otherwise."

Freddy was under 28 seconds for all five of his heats down the 975.4-foot runway, and he was the only one in the far-flung field able to crack that time. The races were run straight into a 20-mile wind, and through intermittent showers.

Troopers Arrest Two For Shooting at Wires

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward France of Pine Hill, Edward Toro, 19, was fined $10 on a disorderly act charge; his brother, Hector Toro, 26, paid $12.50 as a civil compromise under the Conservation Law on a charge of hunting in the field without a license.

Georgia Chain Gang Defeats Colonials, 7-2

Comedians Score Five Runs in 7th To Win Before 425

Zany Antics Keep Crowd in Stitches

The Georgia Chain Gang was funny and good before a paying crowd of 425 Saturday night at municipal stadium.

They were serious when they had to be and highly entertaining most of the way.

Against Zeke Klosterman, the zany baseball characters led 1-0 for four innings. Then Eddie Passante pounded a two-run double down the right field line in the fifth and the Chain Gang trailed 2-1.

With Jerry Bechtold operating the Gang clustered five runs in the seventh and picked up another off Big Jim Feraro in the eighth to score a 7-2 victory.

Peter Cerrone and Georgie Hughes, who divided the pitching chores for the Chain Gang, limited Kingston to four hits—half of them by Ed Passante and singles by Harry Kite and Tom Murphy.

A Quaint Line up

The comedy started early in the evening when the Chain Gang's personal announcer gave the lineups over the PA system and included such quaint names as Lucky Luciano, Al Capone, Frank Costello, Red Dillinger, et al.

The infield practice before the game was almost all horseplay with players pulling extra balls, oranges and sundry items out of their pockets.

Many unorthodox bats were used, including extra long bats, bats split down the middle, one with a top fixed so it would fall apart when the batter got set to swing.

Pete Cerrone, the veteran pitcher, directed most of the comedy in the absence of Jerry Young, who was ill. He gave a running and somewhat original description of the play-by-play in the seventh inning.

Top Comedy Outfit

As predicted the Chain Gang was the best comic outfit—even without Jerry Young—to show here in many years. The crowd was the largest of the current season. The Gang played seriously and brilliantly when they had to and were genuinely funny without even trying.

Manager Fred Davi's lineup furnished a clue to his setup for the Hudson valley championship series which starts next Saturday, Aug. 15, at municipal stadium against Poughkeepsie. The local end of the round robin will run for the next four Saturday nights.

Alaskan Sports Films For Katrine Gun Club

Members of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will see motion pictures filmed in Alaska by a former local resident and sportsman at their monthly meeting Tuesday evening.

The pictures were taken by Vivian Smith, formerly of Kingston, who has been working at Anchorage, Alaska, for the past couple of years. Salmon and trout fishing scenes and moose and bear hunting shots are included.

Several important business items will be taken up by the membership before the films and refreshments.

Surf Board Rider Drowns

Tupper Lake, Aug. 10 (AP)—A surf board rider being towed by a motorboat was drowned in Big Wolf Lake three miles north of here yesterday when he toppled into the water. Philip Torchio Jr., 43, of Bronxville, who police said was an official of the American Gas and Electric Co., failed to surface after the fall. His wife, who was riding in the boat operated by James Reynolds of Syracuse, a camper, dived into the lake in a vain attempt to save him. Torchio was a member of the Big Wolf Club camp colony for many years.

The 1953 NCAA cross-country championship will be held at East Lansing, Mich., on Monday, Nov. 23, for the 15th straight year.

Week-End Sports

Barbara Stark, 16, San Francisco, bettered the American record for 110-yard backstroke with a time of 1:16.6 and Delia Meulenkamp, San Francisco, broke the 440-yard freestyle mark with a 5:22.2 performance.

Vacation Bound

President and Mrs. Eisenhower smile happily, as they stand on ramp before boarding President's plane, The Columbine, for an extended vacation in Colorado. Mrs. Eisenhower's orchid and wings were given her by plane's crew before departure from Washington, D. C., airport.

WEEDS WON'T EVEN GROW—This was once a so-called "improved" pasture in Marshall, Mo., but now it's only slim pickings for the cattle shown above. The field was fertilized and seeded according to the latest methods, but it was to no avail. It has been so dry that even weeds will not grow. As a result cattle are losing weight and the market in the area is disintegrating.

Longest Telegraph Line

Bodies of Two Girls Found; Died in Fire

Mantoloking, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP)—The bodies of two young daughters of a Jersey City doctor were found yesterday in the ruins of their summer home, swept by a fire that started with a gasoline explosion.

The girls, Rosemary Cosgrove, 3, and her sister, Bohmelia Ann, 6, were in their father's station wagon as he drove it into the basement garage of the summer home on Sunset Boulevard Saturday.

The father, Dr. Robert Cosgrove got out of the car when he smelled fumes from a leaking gasoline can in the back, state police said. At the moment, the gas ignited and enveloped the station wagon with the girls inside.

The doctor's frantic attempts to get his daughters out failed. The intense heat forced him out of the garage, police added.

Cosgrove said he had been carrying the gasoline in a can for an outboard motor. He himself suffered bad burns and was taken to Point Pleasant Hospital.

Indiana Youth Is Derby Winner

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 10 (AP)—Freddy Mohler of Muncie, Ind., barred by his health from most boyhood sports, headed home today as king of the nation's soap boxers.

The 14-year-old, 93-pound youngster, pounding out the five fastest times of the day, defeated 150 other teen-agers from 40 states, Alaska and Germany in the 16th All-American Soap Box Derby here yesterday.

Two years ago Freddy had a thyroid ailment which physicians thought might be fatal. He's a lot better now, but he still can't play the active, outdoor games that most boys enjoy.

That he said, was what made him decide to become a soap box driver. It took him five weeks, often working into the night, to get his racer in shape for the derby. "I guess I was to busy to get sick," he grinned.

Gets $5,000 Scholarship

For his victory Freddy received a $5,000 college scholarship. Although he'll just be entering Grade 9-B in Wilson Junior High School next month, he's made up his mind about college.

He said he'd attend Ball State Teachers College in his home town, and become an industrial arts teacher. His dad, Ernest R. Mohler, is a school building custodian in Muncie.

Freddy's mother said his victory was "the greatest thing that ever happened to us. I'm not sure he would have gone to college, otherwise."

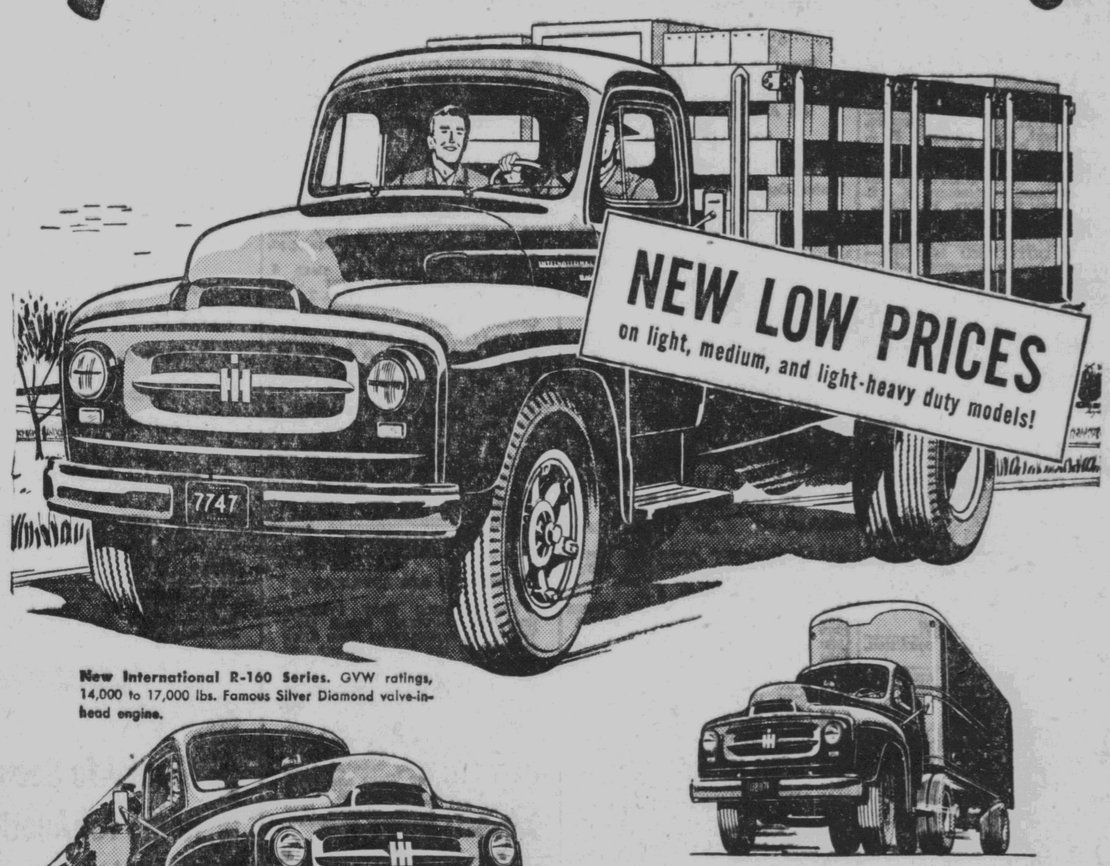

Freddy was under 28 seconds for all five of his heats down the 975.4-foot runway, and he was the only one in the far-flung field able to crack that time. The races were run straight into a 20-mile wind, and through intermittent showers.

Troopers Arrest Two For Shooting at Wires

Two brothers from New York were arrested on Friday by Cpl. Ray Dunn and Trooper Charles Teelon of Phoenicia after complaints had been received from the New York Telephone Company that someone was shooting at telephone wires in that area.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Edward France of Pine Hill, Edward Toro, 19, was fined $10 on a disorderly act charge; his brother, Hector Toro, 26, paid $12.50 as a civil compromise under the Conservation Law on a charge of hunting in the field without a license.

YMCA Day Camp In Final Week

The final week of 1953 has started at YMCA Day camp with approximately 100 campers registered. This was one of the biggest camping seasons ever promoted at the local camp, director Lou Schafer announced.

Campers are now training for the athletic tournaments in which large blue, white and red ribbons with the camp insignia inscribed will be awarded. The running and jumping events are scheduled for Tuesday and the swimming and diving events were completed this past weekend.

Some of the competitions to be held are in tetherball, horseshoes, ping pong, duck pin bowling, darts, checkers, badminton, ring-o-let and table bowling. These contests are underway now and should be complete by Wednesday so that all awards can be made Thursday.

Friday is the final day of camp and all articles left there can be picked up at the "Y" building after August 15, Schafer said. All clothing left after September 18 will go to a rummage sale.

He told this reporter he believed Russia's H-bomb test, if there was one, occurred last week, possibly Friday, because (A) Malenkov's speech was described in dispatches as a "surprise", and (B) the statements by Hinshaw and Van Zandt seemed to imply this country had received no recent evidence of a hydrogen blast in Russia.

Lapp said that if Russia actually has developed an H-bomb, it would not necessarily mean the Soviets "copied an American version through the aid of espionage." He said the field of thermonuclear research "is so new and fruitful that Russia may have uncorked a completely new development which we may have overlooked."

MIND AND MATTER

One of the most important advances in medical science in this generation has been increased understanding of the inseparable relation between mind and body. No one thinks of tuberculosis as a disease of the mind, since it is an infectious disease caused by a germ, but doctors have learned that recovery from the disease can depend as much on the TB patient's mental attitude as on his physical equipment.

An important part of treatment for TB is rest in bed. The person who finds out he has the disease is usually faced with the prospect of a long stay in the hospital. Rest takes on a new meaning when it is something that must be done, possibly for months on end, so that the diseased lungs can heal. To accept not only the fact of the diagnosis of TB but also the necessity for the type of treatment prescribed requires a definite mental adjustment.

The recalcitrant TB patient who refuses to go along with the treatment advised by the doctors lengthens his road to recovery. The anxious one who worries about his future and the welfare of his family is not going to rest properly. Mental and emotional attitudes often determine whether the patient stays in the hospital until he is cured or leaves against medical advice endangering his own life and others, too.

Modern TB treatment includes discovering and dealing with any problems and attitudes which may endanger the success of medical treatment. Doctors, nurses, social workers, and others who work with the TB patient and his family stand ready to help him understand his illness and adjust to it. Together with the representatives of many community agencies, they help him prepare for his release from the hospital and the day when he will take an active part in community life.

Hoover Is 79 Today

San Francisco, Aug. 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover quietly observed his 79th birthday today preparing to again become a consultant on federal government reorganization. Hoover, a Republican, planned no celebration, just a quiet dinner with friends. He declined requests for interviews, but made a statement in which he spoke chiefly of his assignment by President Eisenhower to head the new commission on reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government.

Meet to Discuss Hazards

Panmunjom, Aug. 10 (AP)—Staff officers of the Military Armistice Commission met today to discuss removal of hazards from the demilitarized zone. They agreed to give first priority to the clearing of hazards from roads to be used by the joint observer teams. UN negotiators presented maps showing 8th Army mine fields, safe lanes and wire entanglements. The Communists promised to hand over similar maps. The meeting adjourned with no definite time set for the next meeting.

Wheat Takes Drop

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP)—Wheat fell nearly 9 cents a bushel to new lows for the past four years in very active dealings on the board of trade today. This followed a severe drop last Friday. After about two hours of trading wheat was 6⅞-8⅝ cents lower, September $1.83½.

Three Brooklyn Residents Hurt

Three Brooklyn residents were treated for shock and minor injuries following a two-car collision at 9 p. m. yesterday on Route 213 about two miles west of Rosendale, state police of the Kingston station reported today.

One of the cars, a 1950 sedan traveling east toward Rosendale, skidded on wet pavement on a curve and as it overturned was in collision with another vehicle approaching from the opposite direction, it was reported by Sgt. R. L. Keating and Trooper H. S. Rhodes. Both cars were reported badly damaged.

Treated for shock by a Kerhonkson physician were Mrs. Aaron Bank, 33, of 297 Ocean avenue, and Mrs. Esther Sushner, 32, of 1675 East 21st street, troopers said. Lawrence Levy, 22, of 4802 Snyder avenue, was treated for a bruised left foot and a cut on his left elbow.

The car traveling toward Rosendale was operated by Arnold Serchuk, 20, of 227 Saratoga avenue, Brooklyn, and the other vehicle, a 1951 sedan, by Aaron Bank, 38, of 297 Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, troopers reported. Mrs. Bank and Mrs. Sushner were passengers in the Bank car and Levy was riding in the car operated by Serchuk, troopers said.

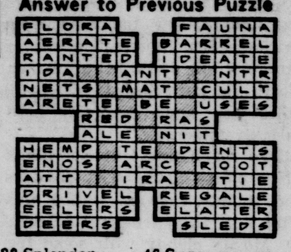

Serchuk was served with a summons on a charge of driving without insurance and is scheduled to appear before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky of Rosendale tomorrow morning.

YMCA Day Camp In Final Week

The final week of 1953 has started at YMCA Day camp with approximately 100 campers registered. This was one of the biggest camping seasons ever promoted at the local camp, director Lou Schafer announced.

Campers are now training for the athletic tournaments in which large blue, white and red ribbons with the camp insignia inscribed will be awarded. The running and jumping events are scheduled for Tuesday and the swimming and diving events were completed this past weekend.

Some of the competitions to be held are in tetherball, horseshoes, ping pong, duck pin bowling, darts, checkers, badminton, ring-o-let and table bowling. These contests are underway now and should be complete by Wednesday so that all awards can be made Thursday.

Friday is the final day of camp and all articles left there can be picked up at the "Y" building after August 15, Schafer said. All clothing left after September 18 will go to a rummage sale.

The new campers this week are Robert Baxter, Robert Jaenesch, Barbara Will and Sheila Lanigan. Campers returning are Anna Mae Trumpait, Tom Gerber and Gladys Bentley.
